BEATTY CALLED HOME BY BRITISH CABINET

British Troops Place Machine Guns to Guard Constantinople Foreigners in Case of Riots.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, November 8.—The cruiser Pittsburgh, flagship of Vice Admiral Long, in command of American naval forces in European waters, has left Gibraltar for Constantinople "for eventualities," the navy department announced today.

The Pittsburgh is expected to arrive within four days and remain indefinitely. Admiral Long, who is on board, recently transferred his flag to the Pittsburgh from the battleship Utah, and it was expected that he would "in the course of events" proceed to Constantinople and thence to various other European ports. The renewed crisis in the Near East, however, caused the navy department to issue orders for Admiral Long to proceed at once.

AGAIN DEMAND ALLIES LEAVE. London, November 8.—(By the Associated Press).—The situation in Constantinople has become obscure because of the virtual suspension of communication between the Turkish capital and London. Very little news has filtered through since Tuesday night and the telegraph lines are interrupted owing, it is reported, to a breakdown somewhere in Thrace.

The latest word from Constantinople was that the Ankara government had reiterated its demand to the allies to evacuate the city. This, if true, renders worthless the undertaking which Ruffet Pasha, the new governor, is said to have given the allied generals on Tuesday that he would cancel measures which the allies regarded as undesirable.

So far as is known the allies are still acting in complete harmony. Official advice received at Paris report that the allied high commissioners in Constantinople have not proclaimed martial law, although they are prepared to make such proclamation immediately when they think it necessary.

May Teach Morals in Public Schools Elementary Grades

Chicago, November 8.—As a measure to combat "puppy love" school romances, a resolution providing for a course of study in morals and civics in the elementary grades of the public schools was adopted by the board of education today.

Some objection to the resolution was voiced on the grounds that the teaching staff of the elementary grades as it is now constituted, is not capable of offering safely the sort of instruction the course would call for.

OPPONENTS LEAD IN BALLOT BATTLE FOR PEACH COUNTY

Complete Returns From 52 Georgia Counties Indicate Defeat of Measure by Over 3,000 Votes.

J. T. VOCELLE BEATEN BY CHARLES S. ARNOW

St. Mary's Man Only Democrat to Lose—McGregor Wins Sweeping Victory in Fulton County.

Complete unofficial returns from 52 Georgia counties at an early hour this morning indicated that should the present ratio of returns continue, the people of Georgia decided Tuesday by a majority of from 7,000 to 10,000 against the creation of Peach county from portions of Houston and Macon counties.

The popular vote from these counties stood: For Peach county: 14,045; against Peach county, 17,107. The majority against the creation of the new county from approximately one-third of the state is 3,062.

Opponents Have Edge. Incomplete returns from 69 additional counties indicate that the opponents of the new county have about the same edge over its advocates. It is expected to be several days before the complete returns from all counties in the state are available.

On the face of the returns collected by the Constitution advocates of the new county refused to concede its defeat. They admitted that the contest will prove close but held out hope for victory. They do not expect the final decision to be known for several days.

Except in Macon county, a part of which was destined to form a portion of Peach county, the contest has been close throughout the state on the returns which have been received to date. Only five votes were cast for the county in Macon, with 1,114 voting against it. Houston county went

EDUCATION BOARD IN BATTLE ROYAL OVER SCHOOL SITE

Proposal to Erect Boys' High School Building on Stockade Property Is Cause of Warm Fight.

INCREASE IN SALARIES FOR TEACHERS ASKED

Board of Education Will Meet With Bond Commission Friday to Discuss Sites for Schools.

The board of education engaged in a battle royal Wednesday afternoon over the stockade property as a site for the new Girls' High school. At the end of a tree-hour session, with no semblance of agreement in sight, the board accepted a suggestion by Councilman J. C. Murphy and asked for another conference with the bond commission to take place Friday morning at 10 o'clock at city hall.

Other features of the meeting included a request by a delegation asking that no modification be made in plans for the Ivy-Calloway school replacement; a request by a tenth ward delegation urging a new building to replace the present wooden structure housing the Stewart Avenue school; and a resolution by Commissioner A. C. Meixell to raise the salaries of principals, assistant principals and department heads. All the requests were referred for committee action.

Commissioner Carl Hutcheson touched off the school site fireworks by proposing that the Boys' High school be switched to the stockade grounds and the girls' school be erected on the Piedmont park tract bought for the boys' school.

McCalley Objects. Commissioner W. L. McCalley immediately objected. He declared it absurd to talk of carrying the girls' school to the north side, when the girls of high school age on the south side outnumber those of the north side several hundred, and with reference to the stockade plot, he said: "It would be a crime, a shame and a disgrace for the board or bond commission to erect that magnificent building for girls on property which is the site of a stockade."

Turning to Mr. Hutcheson he charged: "You've been trying to send the boys of this town to the stockade ever since you've been a member of this board. It's nothing but a political move, and when the time comes I'll lay my hands on the guilty parties."

"Do you think it's a political move on my part?" asked Mr. Hutcheson. "No," replied McCalley, "but I think the wool has been pulled over your eyes."

Story of Quarrel Of Soldiers Told At Murder Trial

Witnesses Insist, However, That They Did Not See Weapon Used.

Incidents leading to the quarrel in the rooms of Mrs. Bertha Poulos, of 83 East Ellis street, in which it is charged that J. O. Brown, Fort McPherson soldier, fatally stabbed F. G. Quinn, another soldier, were related by three witnesses Wednesday when the state opened its case against Brown on trial for murder.

It was stated that the prosecution is in possession of a statement alleged to have been made by Quinn shortly before he died in which he charges that Brown stabbed him without provocation.

Fred Dodson, a soldier; Mrs. Poulos and Mrs. Pearl Thompson, all of whom are said to have been eye-witnesses to the quarrel, took the stand Wednesday. Although they told of a quarrel between Brown and Quinn, they claim that no weapon was seen.

Dodson on Stand. Fred Dodson testified that on the day of the fight he and Brown went to the home of Mrs. Poulos early in the day. Later, he said, Quinn and

NINE METHODIST PASTORS PLACED ON RETIRED LIST

Encouraging Reports of Progress Made During Past Year Given by Twelve Presiding Elders.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT. The outstanding features of interest in the first day of the North Georgia Methodist conference, which began its current year's session at Wesley Memorial church Wednesday morning, with Bishop W. B. Murrah presiding, were the retiring of ministers from the active ministry, the reports made by the 12 presiding elders and the appointment of the four-year and one-year boards to have direction of Methodist affairs in the upper half of the state for the next four years.

The ministers retired from active service are O. M. Hawkins, a former instructor at Emory university; S. P. Wiggins, of Park Street church; H. D. Pace, of Gainesville; F. G. Spearman, of the Glenn circuit; J. O. Pettis, of LaGrange college; W. S. Gaines, of Cumming; J. W. Gopher, of Woodstock; and E. A. Ware, of Rome.

Rev. P. A. Kellet, of the Ben Hill circuit, was granted a supernumerary relation. Dr. Fletcher Walton, former pastor of Park Street church, who has been on the retired list for two years, is attending the conference and is asking to be given an appointment.

Bishop Murrah, in opening the conference, stated his delight at being connected with Georgia Methodism, and proceeded to dispatch business with a swiftness that indicates that he does not intend to allow any loitering on the job while he is in the chair.

Emory Is Secretary. Rev. H. C. Emory, of Dalton, was re-elected secretary of the conference, with G. W. Barrett, L. M. Twigg, W. S. Robinson, H. L. Byrd, Felton Williams, S. B. Strout, E. F. Dempsey and C. P. Harris as assistants.

Rev. H. H. Jones, of Lawrenceville, was again chosen statistical secretary, with G. H. Bailey, C. F. Hughes, B. F. Finn, Jr., W. J. Culpepper, R. P. Ehrbridge, J. W. Vetch, W. D. Spence and J. E. Cline as assistants.

Early in the morning session a message of greetings was received from Bishop J. E. Dickie, of Waco, Texas, who has been a member of this body for 30 years. This year is his first time to be absent.

FORMER PRESIDENT BRANDS REED 'MAN WITHOUT A PARTY'

Letter Written by Woodrow Wilson Says U. S. Senator Reed Is Political Outlander.

LAYS REED VICTORY TO REPUBLICAN VOTES

Says Missourian Has Been Repudiated by Democrats and Elected by Republican Ballots.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. St. Louis, Mo., November 8.—United States Senator James A. Reed, who was re-elected for his third term in the senate in a democratic victory in Missouri yesterday, after having been repudiated by his party two years ago is "a man without a party," according to a letter from former President Woodrow Wilson, which was made public here today.

The letter, dated October 27, ten days before the election, was addressed to former Governor Lon V. Stephens, and stated that if Reed should be elected he would be in the senate "repudiated by democrats and elected above their own man by republican votes."

The letter was not made public during the campaign and served as a reply to one to the former president by Governor Stephens. It was pointed out by Governor Stephens in his letter to the former president that "the result of the primary showed clearly that a large majority of democrats of Missouri are with you, endorse your plights and favor the league of nations."

Mr. Wilson's letter: "My Dear Governor Stephens: I am sincerely obliged to you for your letter of October 1. I know how entirely competent you are to assess the true situation in Missouri and I value accordingly the carefully considered information conveyed in your letter."

"I do not think that I ought to attempt any advice as to the election. I am too far away from what I may call the interior conditions of the situation. I feel, besides, that leaders like yourself can be confidently counted upon to guide the loyal democrats of Missouri to the right course of action."

"If Reed is returned to the senate he will, of course, be there a man without a party; repudiated by democrats and elected above their own man by republican votes. I should think that the usual organization of the senate would be rendered quite impossible."

"With cordial greetings to all true democrats who, like yourself, uphold the real interests and best ideals of the party and of mankind, and with sincere personal regard, faithfully yours, "WOODROW WILSON."

'Armistice Day' To Be Celebrated Here on Saturday

Atlantans Will Stand for Two Minutes With Bowed Heads in Honor of Dead.

Whistles Will Blow. The committee in charge of the official Armistice day celebration requests that again this year all factory and engine whistles be blown for 30 seconds only at 10:59 o'clock Saturday morning, and then stop at two minutes of silent prayer begin at exactly 11 o'clock. Those who will comply with this request are urged to use official Western Union time, and comply with the time to the second, so that we may have as complete success this year as last in this feature.

Commemorating the fourth anniversary of "Armistice day," which marked the close of hostilities in the world war on November 11, 1918, Atlanta will celebrate the occasion next Saturday beginning at 10:30 o'clock with appropriate exercises in the form of a military parade on

Defeated in Race For Nomination to Senate, Kills Self

Yakima, Wash., November 8.—Lee Tittle, recently defeated for the republican nomination for United States senator, ended his life in his hotel room here this afternoon, by taking poison, according to Coroner M. Brown. Tittle, a former county treasurer, had been despondent since his failure to win the nomination.

EVEN DEMOCRATS AMAZED AT SCOPE OF THEIR VICTORY

Landslide Described as One of Most Violent Political Reactions in Recent Years.

With Working Majorities Gone, Administration Faces Difficult Course in Next Two Years.

Constitution Bureau. Washington, November 8.—(By Constitution Leased Wire).—The sweeping democratic victory throughout the country yesterday, wiping out almost entirely the tremendous republican majority piled up by the Harding landslide of 1920, was described in capital circles today as one of the most violent political reactions in off-year elections in recent years.

Loss of eight republican senators in the states of New York, Michigan, Indiana, New Jersey, Delaware, West Virginia, Maryland and North Dakota, combined with the overwhelming rout of republican candidates for the house, has thrown administration leaders into a deep gloom. Just as Woodrow Wilson was two years ago, President Harding was said to be a lonesome and pathetic figure at the white house today.

By way of contrast, headquarters of the democratic national committee was the scene of great hilarity, believing Tuesday's results are the forerunner of a democratic president in 1924. Chairman Cordell Hull expressed the belief that the official count will show even further democratic gains in close states.

Leadership Gone. Potentially, the biggest development from Tuesday's shake-up concerns the stormy course ahead of the next congress. This is explained by the large number of progressives and radicals, coming in the most part from the republican ranks, that will compose the two houses.

Subsequently it is argued that even though the official count shows a slight republican control of the house, congress will be certain to be controlled by the independent and progressive element, which means the destruction of republican leadership. So many of the returned republicans are of progressive tendencies that administration leaders will be unable to hold them in line.

With the republican majority in the senate cut down to less than a dozen this state of affairs seems certain. These votes include LaFollette, Borah, Johnson, Ladd, Lenroot, Norris, and the recently elected "progressives," Brookhart, Howell and Shipstead. Complete independence of party control has already been demonstrated by the first six, who have been known to vote against administration measures in numerous instances. That Howell, Brookhart and Shipstead will join their ranks appears certain in view of their bitter opposition to the republican organization.

Stormy Congress Sure. Should half of the eight named go over to the democrats, as they are expected to do, the republican majority in the senate would be lost, and the administration would be powerless to pull through strictly partisan measures.

A situation of similar character will prevail in the house, it is said. All which leads observers to believe the next congress will be one of the stormiest in the history of the nation.

First skirmishes will start with the special session which the white house has already announced its intention to call for November 20. Joined by the independent element already present, democrats are expected to filibuster immediately against the administration ship sub-

CONGRESS MARGIN NEARLY WIPED OUT AT POLLS TUESDAY

Including Progressive Insurgents, Senate Majority Is Now Placed at Five Seats Only.

LOWER HOUSE MARGIN BARELY HALF-DOZEN

Complete Change in Complexion of Congress Means Defeat for Many Administration Bills.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER.

New York, November 8.—Republicans appear to have come out of Tuesday's election in control of both branches of the national legislature by so narrow a margin that they will have scarcely a working majority.

In the senate 49 votes are required for a majority. There are 41 half-over republicans in the senate now, to which will be added at least 12 elected Tuesday on the face of the latest returns. This would give the republicans an actual margin of five votes to work with. But from a working standpoint it must be remembered that in the ranks giving them this narrow margin are:

Senator Johnson, California, who lists himself as "republican and progressive;" Senator Ladd, North Dakota. "Non-partisan league republican;" Smith Brookhart, Iowa; LaFollette, Wisconsin, and R. B. Howell, Nebraska, listed by administration leaders as "radical progressives;" and such independent republicans as Borah, Idaho; Norris, Nebraska; Norbeck, South Dakota, and Shipstead, Minnesota, labor. All of these may be expected to work individually or collectively in opposition to any administration program they do not approve. It is this group which will actually maintain a balance of power in the senate and effect, through an organization of its nine members, minority control of the upper branch of congress.

House Situation. A similar situation exists in the house. Two hundred eighteen votes are required for a majority in the lower chamber. On the face of late returns it would appear that the republicans may have no more than 22 and possibly less, in the next house—barely enough to give them a majority.

The democrats appear to have landed approximately 211 members of the house and a socialist, Victor Berger, Wisconsin, and an independent from Minnesota, make up the total membership of 435. From this it may be seen that the republicans having only four more than the required majority of 218, group action on the part of independent republicans in the house, as in the senate, could combine with the democrats to force the will of the minority.

Defeat For Pet Bills. All of which would seem to assure stormy days ahead for the administration organization in attempting to force through any legislative program to which there is sharp opposition. This situation would seem, of course, to forecast the defeat of any ship subsidy legislation, for example, and cre-

DEMAND RECOUNT IN MASSACHUSETTS

While Lodge Is Shown Winner by 6,477, Democrats Want Recount of Ballots.

Boston, November 8.—A plurality of 6,477 votes has returned Senator Henry Cabot Lodge to the United States senate, complete returns from Tuesday's state election show. Lodge's election, the most bitter struggle of his long political career, was in doubt until late Wednesday afternoon when complete returns from several missing cities and towns were received.

Republican leaders were stunned by the vote polled by the democrats. They did not claim Lodge's election until the very last vote was counted, so in doubt was the issue at all time.

To Demand Recount. Expressing the belief that a state-wide recount would show Colonel William A. Gaston elected Lodge's successor, the democratic state committee late Wednesday took out preliminary papers for a recount of the senatorial ballots. The petitions, with signatures of voters, must be filed within three days.

"We do not concede the election of Senator Lodge," Arthur Lyman, chairman of the democratic state committee, told the United News. "There will be a recount and it will show Colonel Gaston as Lodge's successor." The republican state committee also advised all city and town committees to take steps to have every senatorial vote cast in the state election recounted or if such action is deemed necessary for the protection of Senator Lodge's interests.

The Liberal Republican league of Massachusetts issued a statement through its chairman, Conrad W. Crocker, declaring the league will demand a state-wide recount in view of Lodge's slight plurality.

Lodge Is Silent. "The league is satisfied that a recount will justify the claims now made by the league that Gaston has been elected by the people," the statement said.

Senator Lodge had no statement to

Campaign Expense Account Sent in By Andrew Gump

Candidate Blames Min for Delay in Complying With Law.

Washington, D. C., November 8.—(Special.)—Andrew Gump, the "100 per cent for the people" candidate for congress, rushed his campaign expense account to the clerk of the house of representatives today. It reached Clerk Page's office this afternoon by special delivery and bore the signature of Gump himself. It was accepted by the clerk.

Clerk Page announced that Mr. Gump need fear nothing from him because the account was late, accepting the busy candidate's explanation that Min was to blame.

"I am aware," reads Gump's letter, "that this report is now a week overdue, but you must blame the delay on Min. On the morning of October 28, the last day for filing pre-election reports, I was scheduled for a ben jolly and baby kissing tour in Hoopole township, so I stuffed my pockets with chewing gum, whistles, and toy balloons and went forth, after making my campaign statement and instructing Min to hand it to the mail man."

Discussed Fall Styles. "It seems that within an hour after I left home our neighbor, Mrs. Given Fitz, blew in, and she and Min began a long distance discussion of the fall fashions. Min has been crazy about what she will wear when she gets to Washington. The conversation ended a few minutes ago and Min called out to me, 'Andy, I forgot to mail that report.'"

"I jumped about six feet in the air, cursed like Captain Kidd, and finally grew so abusive that Min salvaged her honor with a rolling pin. As soon as I came to I rushed down to the mail box so fast you could have played checkers on my coat tails."

In his accounting Gump records gifts of $1000 from Uncle Elm Gump and $5 from the Widow Zander. His expenditures, given in detail, he places at $53,467.70, $800 of which was for "baby rattles."

In a postscript to his letter Gump says: "Please pick out a good seat for me at the right-hand of the speaker, and make first-class reservations for Min and Chester, who will be there to see me sworn in. Tell Sergeant at Arms Joe Rogers to polish up the old mace and prepare for action in the case of trouble, because there is going to be something doing."

Murder Charged To Car Motorman In Woman's Death

U. D. Byram Held on Warrant by Son of Mrg. Cone.

Decatur, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—A warrant charging murder was sworn out this afternoon by O. A. Cone, son of Mrs. Annie E. Cone, against U. D. Byram, motorman on the street car that fatally injured Mrs. Cone near her East Lake residence Monday afternoon.

Immediately after the warrant was sworn out before Justice W. P. House, Judge Hutchinson set bond for the motorman at $7,500. Steps were being taken by representatives of the street car company to make the bond, city officials authorities said tonight.

The warrant was the first definite charge against Motorman Byram since his arrest Tuesday night. Officials of the Georgia Railway and Power company announced after an investigation into the occurrence that it was unavoidable.

Funeral services for Mrs. Cone, who was 75 years old, and one of the oldest and most respected citizens of East Lake, will be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning from the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes. Interment will follow in West View cemetery.

She is survived by two sons, W. B. and O. A. Cone, both of Atlanta, and two daughters, Miss Ina Cone, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Walter Price, of Washington, D. C.

LEGIONAIRES PLAN FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Forty-Five Thousand Poppies
Made by Women for Annual Sale.

In order to extend its relief work and inaugurate several new features in its program, Atlanta post, No. 1, of American Legion, is making plans whereby an exceedingly large number of poppies will be sold on Armistice day, Saturday, November 11.

Over 45,000 poppies have been made by various women's organizations in the city and it is thought that over $5,000 will be realized from the sale. Every cent of this money will go toward relief work of the local post.

The women's club will co-operate with the legion in selling poppies. Mrs. B. M. Boykin has again accepted the general chairmanship of the sale and has appointed Mrs. E. E. Hugueny and Mrs. Rufus Barnett to have charge of the sub-committee on selling.

A committee of ladies will be on every corner and near every office building in the downtown districts, and at the various community centers of the outlying districts, and it is expected that the 45,000 poppies will be disposed of.

POTATO RESEMBLING SNAKE IS PRODUCED

A Porto Rican yellow yam, measuring four feet in length and weighing four pounds—an average weight of one pound per foot—is a product of the farm of J. G. and N. A. Hunter on Hightower road near West Inman Springs. The freak potato closely resembles a snake, except that it has a curl near one end, and was taken from the field without damage to the yam's appearance. No explanation is offered to account for the odd shape of the product.

Dixie Democrats Drive Republicans Out of Congress

Foothold in South Gained by G. O. P. in 1920 Is Gone Again.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
The democratic "solid south" once again is a reality as a result of ballots cast in yesterday's general election, according to returns early today.

Led by Tennessee, where Governor Alf A. Taylor, for many years a republican leader of his state, was defeated by Austin Peay and Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee, regained his seat in congress, the democrats drove the republicans from the foothold the latter had gained in 1920. The democrats increased their congressional representation from four to eight in the state, reducing their opponents from five to two.

B. C. Reese, first district, and J. W. Taylor, second district, both unopposed, were the only two republican congressmen to pass through the voting. Hull defeated W. F. Clouse, who won over him two years ago.

So complete was the democratic landslide, as indicated by the returns, the ninth congressional district of Virginia—22 years represented by republicans—was carried by George C. Peery over John H. Hoo, republican nominee.

This victory placed Virginia with Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas as states sending solid democratic delegations to the national lower house.

Mrs. Lucy B. Patterson, republican, who opposed Congressman Charles M. Stedman in the fifth North Carolina district, was defeated by a large vote.

Democrats were victorious in each of the southern states electing senators. They follow: Park Trammell, Florida; H. D. Stephens, Mississippi; Kenneth D. McKellar, Tennessee; Claude A. Swanson, Virginia, and W. F. George, Georgia.

JACK FROST WILL NOT REACH SOUTH FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Jack frost will not get as far south as Atlanta for some days, according to the forecast from the local weather bureau office Wednesday. In the regions north of Atlanta this morning the flowers were probably nipped by a light frost, as C. F. von Mermann, meteorologist, predicted that north Georgia would have a temperature sufficient to insure a light frost.

Several days of the wonderful weather such as prevailed in Atlanta Wednesday are predicted by the weather man. This morning the temperature was expected to fall a little below the mark for Wednesday, 44 degrees, and possibly hover around 41 or 40.

Fair weather with moderately low temperature was predicted for the entire state of Georgia, and it was also reported that the entire interior of the country was enjoying fine clear and moderately cold weather. All storm formations were reported gone except on the central Pacific coast.

One Seriously Hurt And Others Injured As Truck Hits Auto

Touring Car Turns Over and Occupants Are Pinned Underneath.

F. B. Golan, of Ingleside, Ga., and J. D. Queen, his son-in-law, were seriously injured when a touring car in which they were riding was struck by an automobile truck owned by the Perfection Baking company at the intersection of Glenn street and Stewart avenue Wednesday morning.

The injured men were rushed to Grady hospital where an examination showed that Golan was suffering from a broken rib and internal injuries and Queen suffered from several cuts and bruises. Both men will recover.

According to witnesses, Golan and his son-in-law, Queen, were riding in a touring car when an automobile truck driven by Frank Wheeler, aged 15, collided with the car as the truck turned in from Glenn street.

The touring car turned completely over and the occupants were pinned underneath.

The truck stalled in the wreckage and when young Wheeler could not get his truck free of the car, Arthur Edmondson, Wheeler's companion, succeeded in backing the truck clear of the wreckage when the gears became locked, according to both boys, and the machine started on a run across a vacant lot, striking a negro woman and slightly injuring her, hitting a dray and swerving into a telephone pole before halting. Edmondson was thrown out of the truck and badly scratched.

Both Wheeler and Edmondson were arrested on a charge of reckless driving and are detained at juvenile court headquarters for a hearing Friday afternoon.

GREAT INCREASE SHOWN IN FOREIGN TRADE BY ATLANTA

Foreign trade, export business, through the southern ports is showing a great increase recently, stated Robert L. McKellar, foreign freight traffic manager of the Southern Railway system, while in Atlanta Wednesday, investigating foreign trade conditions. Mr. McKellar has charge of the export business of his system through all the southern ports, and has his headquarters in Louisville, Ky. He is a brother of Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, who was re-elected Tuesday by a majority of approximately 40,000.

"Foreign business through all the southern ports," said Mr. McKellar, "is showing a remarkable increase lately. New Orleans, Mobile, Charleston and Savannah, in fact, all the southern ports are increasing their volumes rapidly."

"In the past two years terminal and port facilities have also been put in a state of efficiency at these places. There is no congestion now, and the increased volume is being handled without delays or other annoyances incident to inefficient port facilities or lack of equipment."

Mr. McKellar called at the chamber to visit a few minutes with Secretary B. S. Barker. While there he made the acquaintance of B. C. Geisinger, district manager, South Atlantic district office, American Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Ordinances Calling For Laying of Sewers Vetoed by Mayor Key

On the ground that the municipal treasury depleted Mayor Key vetoed on Wednesday nine ordinances for the laying of sewers passed by council last Monday.

The streets affected are Gordon, Terrace, North avenue, Lawton street, Roy, Rodgers, Cowley, Reed, West Arden and Masson. Council passed the ordinances Monday afternoon.

An ordinance providing for the paving of The Prado was laid aside by Mayor Key for "further investigation."

Another ordinance, authorizing the purchase of five turkeys for use of the police department, was sent back to control without the mayor's approval. He said the price fixed for the turkeys was unreasonably high.

WIRE CHIEFS PLAN IMPROVED SERVICE

Improvement of service in Alabama, Georgia and the southern territory and better cable service to Europe and South America were among matters taken up by officials of the southern division and fifty managers of Western Union offices in Georgia and Alabama at a three-days' conference at the Piedmont hotel in this city, which was concluded Monday night.

H. C. Carroll, father of Atlanta office, addressed the meeting on telegraph needs of Atlanta.

Under the new plans decided upon at the conference, telegrams and cables will be handled with increased promptness. Telegrams will be transmitted between the principal cities of the United States in fifteen minutes and cables to Liverpool and London will be handled in the same time. Twenty minutes will be required for messages to points in South America.

ATLANTA POLICE NEEDS EXPLAINED BY CHIEF BEAVERS

Apparently aroused over the large number of daylight burglaries over the past few weeks in the city of Atlanta, Police Chief Beavers has given out some interesting information of police needs of the city and an outline of plans which he will present to the 1923 city council soon after the new year.

Present plans include three substations and 25 extra men for each, and two police courts. Locations for the proposed new substations suggested by Chief Beavers are West End, the Inman Park-Druid Hills section and Peachtree and Tenth streets.

Chief Beavers states that "the city needs more policemen and three substations," and declares that "Atlanta is the largest city in America without police substations. Atlanta also has the smallest police force of any city of its size, he says."

MUNICIPAL COAL YARD FOR ATLANTA IS URGED

Federation of Trades Authorizes Committee to Arrange Preliminaries.

Steps towards establishing a municipal coal yard for Atlanta in order to relieve the present coal situation were taken at a meeting last night of the Atlanta Federation of Trades. Fannett Quinn, president, announced. The federation authorized a committee to arrange all the preliminaries towards the inauguration of this innovation, and work on this movement will be rushed, according to leaders of the organization.

A report from the executive board of the federation giving sympathy and endorsement to the establishment of the Junior Republic of Georgia, at Freeport, N. Y., was concurred in by the federation, by an unanimous vote. Miss Louise Leonard, industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A. for the southeast, spoke to the federation upon the principles and the efforts of the organization to bring wide benefits to industrial women. Her address was instructive and well delivered and President Emmett L. Quinn thanked her on behalf of the federation.

A communication was received from Superintendent Willis A. Sutton asking that the federation appoint a committee to co-operate with the school department in seeking to force all children of school age to attend. The request was concurred in by the labor body.

By a vote of 20 to 13 the Federation of Trades turned down a motion to apply for membership in the chamber of commerce in the name of its president.

Fighting for the motion were President E. L. Quinn, Jerome Jones, editor of The Journal of Labor; P. L. Rickard, president of the typographical union; J. A. Miller, and E. B. Keessling, of the barber's union.

Opposing it were Louie P. Marquardt, H. O. Teat, of the street car union; William Pollard, president of the Building Trades council; William Strauss, of the tailors; Jim Shue, Carl Karston, of the musicians; and others.

Mrs. Pace Given Freedom on Bond; Mrs. Bright Here

Woman in Alleged Eternal Triangle Case to Return to Florida Today.

Mrs. Fredericks Pace, wealthy New York apartment owner, who was brought to Atlanta from Jacksonville, Fla., Wednesday evening under a grand jury indictment charging her with a statutory offense in connection with her alleged relations with Lynwood Lee Bright, now of Macon, was granted her liberty a short time after her arrival at the Fulton county jail under a $500 bond. She expects to return to Florida some time during Thursday.

As the Southern train bringing Mrs. Pace and Officer Stone to Atlanta passed through Macon at 5:15 Wednesday evening, Lynwood Bright, indicted with her under the statutory charge, was seated across the table from Miss Alta Bright, 10-year-old daughter by his first wife, in the Bibb superior court, resisting the efforts of his first wife, Mrs. Louise C. Bright, and their five children to have probated what they claim to be the last will and testament of Bright's father, Green L. Bright, who died last March, and who, according to the first Mrs. Bright and her children, left a will bequeathing all his property to her for life and at her death to go to the children.

Mrs. Bright on Train.
But Mrs. Pace was not the only one on the train that is figuring prominently in Bright's discomfiture. It also brought to Atlanta Mrs. Olivia Fairfax Bright, wife No. 2, at whose instance and under whose direction the criminal charges against both Bright and Mrs. Pace have been brought. She occupied a seat in the chair car while Mrs. Pace, with Officer Stone, rode in the "day-coach."

While Mrs. Pace vehemently denied the charges against her, stating that she was being persecuted because Mrs. Bright was unable to retain the affections of her husband, Mrs. Bright insisted that she would be able to convict her husband and Mrs. Pace, not only in the state courts on the usual domestic charge, but also in the federal courts on a charge of violating the Mann White slave law.

Seated in the offices of his attorneys, H. D. Frazier and J. F. Urquhart, in Macon, Bright freely charged that his arrest at this time was the result of an effort on the part of his wife to subvert the public's mind against him while he was attempting to disprove what his first wife claimed to be the last will and testament of his father, which disinherited him.

Another case pending before the superior court in Bibb county in which the Brights are interested is the suit instituted by him for a divorce, an dth cross-bill she is preparing to file within the next few days, asking a divorce from Mrs. Bright, and claiming Mrs. Pace as a co-respondent. Mrs. Bright is represented by Attorneys Oliver C. and John M. Hancock.

Married in Macon.
Mr. and Mrs. Bright were married in Macon, June 2, 1918. She is then the divorced wife of Carlos Dickinson, a city fireman. Bright had also divorced his first wife, by whom the five children were born. They left for Jacksonville, Fla., an hour after their marriage, where Bright was employed as an automobile mechanic with the Texas Oil company, Mrs. Bright stated. He was transferred to Charleston, S. C., during September of that year, coming to Atlanta about January 1, 1919.

They went to Norfolk, Va., April 1, 1919, where Bright obtained a position with the Sak's Clothing company (now the Smartwear Shop), coming from there to New York. Mrs. Bright left for New York in advance of her husband, to arrange for an apartment, she states.

During January, of the following year, he suffered a paralytic stroke, his left leg becoming partially disabled as a result, and apparently became an aphasic victim during July. At the time of his paralytic stroke he was working for Gimbel Bros. department store. He obtained a position with the Nedick company, soft drink manufacturers, upon improving. He was holding this position at the time of his affliction with aphasia.

On the advice of Dr. Royal Cannaday she carried him to the Neurological institute for observation, his trouble being diagnosed as neurasthenia.

Meets Mrs. Pace.
Through all this, she asserted, she nursed him attentively and provided for him as best she could. He then obtained a position as elevator man and switchboard operator at an apartment, later giving up this position when she secured for him a similar position at the apartment owned by Mrs. Pace, her mother and sister.

Shortly afterward, she stated, he packed up his belongings and stated he was going to do double duty—working night and day. A few days later, during the absence of Mrs. Bright from home, he packed up his trunk and left, living in a basement room of Mrs. Pace's apartment.

Then followed the trouble: Some days afterward, according to Mrs. Bright, she received a notice from her husband threatening divorce proceedings. A second notice warned her that unless she brought action to obtain a divorce, he would.

Taking her case to the court on domestic relations Bright was committed to jail in default of $364 cash bond, which he was required to post which would take the form or nature of alimony. His father later posted this sum for him and his release from prison followed.

$50,000 Love Balm.
As a result of the separation of Mrs. Bright from her husband, Mrs. Pace has been made the defendant in a $50,000 suit for alienating his affections.

Some spiny love letters alleged to have been written by Mrs. Pace to Bright are in the possession of Mrs. Bright and her attorneys, some of them reading as follows:

One Perfect Day.
A letter, glowing with tender expressions did not arouse a feeling of doubt as to what was right or wrong:

My Dear:
Just to tell you what a darling man you are and wishing myself in your arms again where the hours pass like minutes.

While looking at the picture this evening I know I shall be living over the dear time we spent together happy in our new found love. After all what else matters and even should we never become man and wife as sometimes may happen you know, we can always look back and think of the one perfect day we had together.

Today I missed all those dear little attentions just the glass of water brought to me, not mentioning other darling things you thought of. How I love you for being so good to me.

This little love letter is sincere and I know you believe it so.

Yours:

Further references to "our perfect day" were contained in another letter.

Dearest:
It is so impossible to talk to the hall and I want you to know how thoroughly I enjoyed your day. It was so sweet to be

Kisses and Lots of Love.

When she was in Hackett's Town, loneliness struck her for her lover and her letter turned from the impassionate phrases of other letters to homely things:

Sunday morning dear and I have just finished your dear letter. It is very beautiful up here.

Last evening after dinner we went to the exercises at the school which were beautiful. Helen sang alone and did very well and I was proud of her.

We are stopping at a sweet little hotel and last night I fell asleep thinking of you.

As ever—F.

Bright Winner In First Step.

Macon, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—Lynwood L. Bright, who is under arrest here under an indictment returned in Fulton county charging him with a statutory offense and in which Mrs. Fredericks Pace, of New York, is co-defendant, today won the first step in his legal fight to break the will of his father, the late Green Bright. Judge Malcolm D. Jones, in Bibb superior court, ruled that a copy of a will of the late Mr. Bright, which was probated by Ordinary C. M. Wiley, could not stand.

The copy was admitted to probate after testimony had convinced Ordinary Wiley that the original will had been destroyed. Judge Jones ruled that the elder Mr. Bright had two days and one night in which to destroy the will, and that such would not overcome the presumption set up by law.

Attorneys for the children of Lynwood L. Bright obtained an order to have the property held in its same status until the ruling of Judge Jones can be reviewed by the supreme court.

The will of the late Mr. Bright, who had several thousand dollars worth of real property, left one house to his son, Lynwood L. Bright; one house to the five children of his son, and the rest of the property, with some minor exceptions, to the son for life, which would revert under the law to the children.

It was brought out in court today that the elder Bright had contributed to the support of his son's wife and children since the husband and wife had separated. Mr. Bright lived at the home of Mrs. H. E. Clarke, 1421 Second street, was taken sick and sent to the hospital, where he died. The original will was seen by the eldest grandchild on Saturday evening and Mr. Bright was sent to the hospital on Monday. The key to the room was turned over to Mr. Bright by his daughter-in-law at the hospital.

It was charged that Lynwood Bright secured the key to the room and destroyed the original will in order to inherit the entire estate unencumbered, instead of having his children share in the property.

Today's trial was in the nature of an appeal from the ruling of Ordinary Wiley in admitting the copy of the will to probate.

In addition to the testimony of Lynwood Bright's daughter, Mary, that she had seen the original copy of the will, Miss Margaret Denkle, a trained nurse, who attended Mr. Bright in his last illness testified that Lynwood Bright had approached her with an offer "to pay all my expenses, and give me a large check," to testify that the senior Mr. Bright was rational. She said she indignantly refused the check, because she said she could not take it under those circumstances.

Mrs. H. E. Clarke testified that she was at home on the Saturday afternoon Mary Bright claimed she had seen the original will and that she did not see the girl there. She further testified that the elder Mr. Bright appeared to be devoted to his son.

She also divulged that Lynwood Bright came to his father's room after it had been locked up and entered by a window and stayed in the room for some time. She said she knew he was the only son of his father and she thought it perfectly proper to allow him free access to the room.

Bright is at liberty under $500 bond, and will probably be taken to Atlanta within a few days. Mrs. Fredericks Pace, who is jointly indicted with him in Fulton county, and who was arrested a few days ago at Jacksonville, passed through Macon tonight enroute to Atlanta.

Bright is now suing his wife for divorce and Mrs. Bright is suing Mrs. Pace for $50,000 for alienation of the affections of her husband.

CHILD'S ARM BROKEN IN STREET ACCIDENT

Her arm fractured when she was run over by a delivery wagon in front of her home at 43 Manigault street, Dorothy Hamby, aged 3, was taken to the Grady hospital Wednesday evening.

According to witnesses the little girl with playmates was romping near the curb when the wagon driven by J. L. Mize, 184 Flatshoals avenue, passed. Unseen by the driver the Hamby girl darted toward the center of the street, and trying to avoid the wagon slipped and fell under the rear wheel. She was picked up by a passing motorist and taken to the hospital. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Hamby.

HAD FEMALE TROUBLE FOR YEARS—NOW THANKFUL FOR RELIEF

Hot Springs, Ark.—"For several years I have had female trouble of the worst kind. I had severe pains and was so very nervous at my menstrual periods, usually put me in bed for two or three days. I had tried several different female medicines and doctors had treated me. I was induced to give St. Joseph's G. F. P. a trial, which I am so thankful I did. Since taking St. Joseph's G. F. P. I feel much better in every way. My appetite is good. I am not so nervous and sleep better, and think it is a mighty good medicine for sick, suffering women. You have my permission to use this testimonial."—Mrs. R. B. Davis, 110 Parrell St.

Sent to a Fine Position, Miss Vera Holland Thanks The Southern Business College For Showing Her the Opportunities of Life

The September, October and November Enrollments at the Southern Break All Records.

Cotton is still advancing, business is booming, and the young men and women of this section are rushing to the Southern Shorthand and Business University to prepare for commercial positions, as they did during the war times, because they know that prosperity is spreading over the country at a rapid gait.

"If those who are missing the golden opportunities of life knew what a wonderful position the 'Dear Old Southern' has placed me in, they would all flock to this great institution of opportunities," writes Miss Vera Holland, who has just recently finished a business course at the Southern and gone to a pleasant and responsible position in the business world.

"If I had possessed a knowledge of shorthand or bookkeeping I could have secured any one of three positions which I ran across last week when looking for employment," said a young man who enrolled this week at the Southern for Business Training.

Those young people who are ambitious and wish to enter the Business World, should read the letter written by Miss Holland to the Southern Business College, which is published below.

"Atlanta, Ga., November 4, 1922.
"Southern Shorthand and Business University.

"Gentlemen: Of all the writings in the English language, I think there is not a truer saying than 'there is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at its course, leads on to fortune.' The best way to get the real good of life is to use well our opportunities. However, many people do with opportunities as children do with the sand at the seashore, filling their hands with it and letting the grains fall through one by one.

"But I thank the Southern Shorthand and Business University for knocking at my door and showing me the opportunities of life. I am now bookkeeper for the Firemen's Fund Insurance Company, in the Hurt Building, and if all those who are

WETS WIN VICTORY IN FIVE STATES

Illinois, California, Missouri, New Jersey and New York Register Protests Against Prohibition.

Chicago, November 8.—Proponents of relaxing the present prohibition laws scored heavily in at least four states yesterday, according to compilations today. In Illinois an expression of sentiment on the Volstead act favored modification by approximately 600,000 votes to a negative 200,000 with one-half the state reported; California defeated the state enforcement act by an indicated two to one vote; Missouri re-elected United States Senator James A. Reed, an avowed opponent of prohibition, and New Jersey, it was indicated, sent Governor Edward I. Edwards, also avowedly against prohibition, to the United States senate over Senator Frelinghuysen.

In Illinois the congressional delegation will take in three "wets," reports indicate the Wisconsin delegation went "wet" seven to four, the majority from the state including Victor L. Berger, socialist, elected for the third time. Wisconsin also re-elected Senator Robert M. La Follette, classed as an anti-prohibitionist, by the drys.

In Ohio, the vote on the light wine and beer amendment in 4,850 precincts out of 8,167 was: For, 442,370; against, 453,220.

In New York state where the democrats swept the state, the democratic platform contained a plank favoring light wine and beer.

In the seventh Minnesota congressional district returns indicated Representative Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition act, to be making a strong fight to overcome the early lead of Rev. O. J. Kvale. Wets drew little hope from that, however, as Rev. Kvale has described himself as "drier than Volstead."

In various congressional districts in which the wet and dry question was made an outright campaign issue, the two sides fared about alike, some of the drys being beaten decisively and a few of the wets winning.

Shop Is Rebuilt.

Dawson, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—The machine shop of the Dawson Variety works which was destroyed by fire several months ago has been rebuilt, the location, however, having been changed. When fitted with machinery the machine shop will be one of the most up-to-date in this section.

Atkinson Shows Hydro-Electric Growth in State

Demand for Electrical Energy Rapidly Increasing, Declares Atlantian.

Giving the information that another big hydro-electric development will probably be started by the Georgia Railway and Power company before the completion of the Tugalo dam, now under construction, and that the demand for electrical energy is increasing in this section to such an extent that developments of the 300,000 horse-power of unharvested water power owned by the company, will be necessary, Harry M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of the above company, contributes a highly important article to the current issue of the Manufacturer's Record.

The Georgia Railway and Power company, declares Mr. Atkinson, now operates something like 150,000 horse power of hydro-electrical energy. To this will be added the energy developed at the Tugalo dam, which will bring the aggregate to 234,000 horse power.

"The demand for energy, however, in this section of the south is increasing with such strides," declared Mr. Atkinson, "that probably by the time the Tugalo plant is completed another development will have been started."

Plan Development.
"The Georgia Railway and Power company," continued Mr. Atkinson, "also owns in addition 303,000 horse power of undeveloped and partially developed power, and has plans for successive developments of these undeveloped and partially developed water powers."

"According to figures," said he, "recently compiled by the railroad commission of Georgia, Atlanta and the territory served by the Georgia Railway and Power company had the third lowest average power rate of any city in the United States. These low rates and the additional power capacity that will be available with the completion of the Tugalo development should go a long way toward attracting new industries to Atlanta and North Georgia."

The article in the Manufacturer's Record, written by Mr. Atkinson, is looked upon as perhaps the most important industrial story that has been sent out from Atlanta within a decade.

It carries with it not only the information that this city will be able to offer an abundance of electrical energy, but the assurance that this power can be had at the third cheapest rate in the United States.

Mr. Atkinson declares that the company has been pushing its work on various developments since 1911, with all possible speed, interrupted, as they were, by war conditions, etc., and goes into many interesting details regarding the new plants that will soon be ready for work, as well as others that he has developed.

102,000 Horse Power.
The Tallulah falls plant, comprising six units of 17,000 horse power, was placed in operation with five of its units in 1913, the sixth unit was started in 1920, making a total of 102,000 horse power at that plant. The current from this plant serves 51 municipalities in north Georgia in addition to many manufacturing enterprises, giving employment to many thousands of people.

The second step in the program, declares Mr. Atkinson, is the Mathis reservoir, which was completed in 1915. This dam stores something like 1,369,000,000 cubic feet of water, capable of generating 15,000,000 kilowatt hours at the Tallulah Falls station. The lake backed up by this dam is nine and one-half miles long. The Burton dam is the third step, which was begun in 1917, and thrown open in 1920. This dam will store 5,280,000,000 cubic feet of water, making it possible to generate 55,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

The Tugalo development, the first station of which is expected to be ready for operation by July, 1923, will be entirely finished by the first of the year 1922.

The Tugalo development is at the junction of the Chattahoochee river with the Tallulah river and consists of a cyclopean masonry dam 150 feet high and 1,000 yards long. It will contain 225,000 of masonry. The power house will be located below the dam and will have four turbines, each connected to generators of 12,500 horse power. Here it is estimated that 140,000 kilowatt hours can be developed.

New 110,000 Line.
A new 110,000 volt transmission line will be constructed to deliver this new power to Atlanta and other points. Atlanta will be the central distributing point. Immediately upon the completion of the Tugalo plant the entire output of all the developments will be available in the territory now served by a distribution system consisting of 685 miles of transmission lines.

The power generated by the Georgia Railway and Power company will be interconnected with that of seven lines of power companies of five states, including the Central Power company, the Tennessee Power company, the Southern Power company, the Columbus Power company, the Alabama Power company, and will have a total possible power of 1,010,355 horse power and trunk lines for transmission measuring a something like 800 miles in length, co-ordinating the rainfall of three separate water sheds. The Georgia Railway and Power company forms the hub of interconnected companies through which, by a system of relays, it is practicable to utilize the government steam plant at Sheffield, Ala., in Sheffield, Ala., serving and delivering power to Raleigh, N. C., 600 miles away.

JAMES REPORTS NEWEST WRINKLE IN AUTO THIEVERY

If some man calls you up and in business-like tones urgently requests you to remain at your desk as he is "coming right over to see you," don't do it.

Instead, strike a bee line for your automobile and be prepared to defend it against a clever gang of thieves, who have just sprung the latest raffle in auto stealing on record in Atlanta.

George C. James, well-known wholesale fish man, with offices in the Grant building, is the first victim of the new-departure auto thieves.

Several days ago Mr. James reports that he was called by phone and informed that a Mr. LeGraw was coming to call on him between 1 and 2 o'clock, and "please don't leave your office at that time."

As a consequence, Mr. James sat in his office until 2:30 o'clock. Then he determined in disgust to go home, but when he went to the place he had parked his car on Wall street, the automobile was gone.

So Mr. James is responsible for the warning contained in the first paragraph in this article.

NEW STATE SCHOOL CHIEF ADDRESSES MASONIC SESSION

N. H. Ballard, of Brunswick, recently elected superintendent of schools of Georgia and past grand master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Georgia, Wednesday, made his first address in Atlanta since election, the speech being delivered at a meeting of the Masonic club, at the Peacock cafe.

Mr. Ballard told of the success of the meeting of the grand lodge in Macon recently, and commended the energetic activities of Sam Johnson, delegate to the grand lodge from Atlanta.

W. R. C. Smith was principal speaker at the meeting of the club. He dealt mainly with the work done in the past year by the chamber of commerce and outlined some of the future plans of the organization, among them the establishment of a bureau for industrial promotion, a community production marketing department and promotion of a more extensive advertising campaign.

Among other guests present at the meeting were Charles Andrews, deputy high priest of the grand chapter of Georgia; Mrs. John Bishop, field inspector for the Georgia Children's Home society; John Rockefeller Bellis, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Charles Grazier, of Birmingham, Ala.

MISS MARTHA BERRY IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

Head of Berry Schools in Serious Condition From Overwork at Rome Hospital.

Rome, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—Miss Martha Berry, founder and director of the Berry schools for mountain boys and girls, is seriously ill in a local hospital, suffering from a malady superinduced, according to her physicians, largely by overwork and nerve-strain incidental to the management of the school plant during the last few months.

Ten days ago she collapsed after a morning of arduous work in her office and was carried to a hospital, where for a time her life was despaired of. She is reported to be improving, though not yet out of danger.

Owing to the unprecedented demand for accommodations that has been levied upon the Berry schools this fall by mountain youths yearning for education, Miss Berry has overtaxed her strength in her efforts

Alleged Negro Thief Captured by Police After Pistol Fight

Residents in a rooming house at 30 Decatur street were aroused at daybreak Wednesday morning by a fusillade of shots exchanged between a policeman and a negro fugitive who gave his name as John Scott, 19, of 16 Vine street.

Scott was captured by Call Officer John Wood after a chase across the roofs of several buildings which ended at the rooming house when the officer apprehended the negro. The latter's left arm was shattered by a bullet from the officer's pistol.

Scott is accused by S. H. Seigler, of the Inman Park dairy, located at 350 Euclid avenue, of having looted a milk wagon of a box containing $50 while the driver of the wagon was engaged in delivering milk. The robbery is alleged to have occurred shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. Seigler telephoned police headquarters and Officer Wood responded.

The officer made his way to the top floor of the rooming house where Scott was said to be in hiding. Coming upon him suddenly Officer Wood was attacked by the negro who sought to wrest the officer's pistol from his grasp. In the hand-to-hand engagement the officer fired his pistol several times at his assailant. The negro broke away and climbed to the roof of the building pursued by Officer Wood, who chased him for almost a block on the roofs of adjacent buildings. He was captured by the officer, the former endeavoring to return through the window of the rooming house.

Another negro, John Weaver, of 9 Benning place, was taken into custody by the officer and charges similar to those docketed against Scott were recorded against him at the police station.

Several students of Upsala college, Kenilworth, N. J., have applied for permission to take the civil service examination for postmaster of that town.

COOK WILL PLAY ROLE OF CUPID TO WIDOWED HEN

When Charles Cook, cashier of the motor vehicles department in the office of Secretary of State S. G. McLehman arrives at his office Thursday morning he will be greeted by the cackle of a temporarily widowed hen which is to be reunited, through Mr. Cook to a rooster husband.

Thursday, November 9, happens to be Mr. Cook's birthday and the hen is a present from his co-workers in the secretary of state's office. A fund to purchase the hen was raised by Mrs. H. H. Itaney, secretary of the Georgia securities commission.

Last year Mr. Cook's birthday also fell on November 9 and at that time he was presented by the office force with a handsome rooster which was raised by A. B. Harris, chief clerk. This year the irrepressible Mrs. Rainey discovered that the rooster was pining away for some strange reason and consulting Mr. Harris she was told that his widow was still over at his place. Then the happy idea of presenting the hen to Mr. Cook on this birthday developed and was carried into action immediately.

Members of the staff in the state department will assemble soon after 10 o'clock for the presentation ceremony to be conducted by Mrs. Rainey.

AGNES SCOTT GIRL TO ENTERTAIN LEAGUE

The Agnes Scott Glee club and John T. Boileau, popular speaker, will be the chief attractions at a social meeting of the Men's Service League of the Westminster Presbyterian church, to be held at the church tonight. A chicken dinner will be served at 6:45 o'clock.

It was announced that the splendid Glee club from Agnes Scott will present a varied program of popular and classical selections. This club is one of the best of its kind in the south.

Boileau, who is a member of the state public service commission, will deliver an address on current topics. He is one of the most pleasing speakers in the state and his address will be one of the principal features of the meeting.

DeKalb to Stage Big Anniversary Pageant Today

Every Town and Rural Precinct to Be Represented in Festivities.

Decatur, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—Every town and rural precinct in DeKalb county will be represented in the historical pageant with which the county's centennial anniversary celebration will open, in this city at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

All public offices and Decatur business establishments generally will remain closed throughout the day, and the city will be given over entirely to the enjoyment of the celebration program and to the entertainment of the thousands of residents, former residents and the friends of DeKalb citizens who are expected to be the guests of Decatur upon this significant occasion.

Following the pageant, addresses on historic, literary and industrial topics will be delivered by C. M. Murphy, chairman of the state public service commission and a native of Decatur; Dr. Andrew Stedd, of Emory university; and C. L. Moore, of Nashville, will discuss all the phases of the program of athletic contests on the grounds of the Decatur high school.

The historical pageant is a chapter of Mrs. H. L. Parry, director, W. B. Gibson, marshal. It will form at Clairmont avenue parade the principal attraction. Public buildings and stores will be decorated.

Divisions of an Emory unit of the T. C. will stage a sham battle in the afternoon.

A band concert will be given at noon. Merchants of the town will co-operate with different organizations, including the Red Cross, the U. D. C., D. A. R. and the Parent-Teachers' association, in supplying the crowd with a dinner.

9 METHODIST PASTORS PUT ON RETIRED LIST

ence at Hot Springs a number of the laws of the Southern Methodist church were revised and others added. This session of the annual conference now being work under the new laws, hence appropriate boards and committees were appointed Wednesday to have charge of the various phases of labor. Boards were named to give attention to budgets, missions, Sunday schools, church extension, Epworth leagues, finances, conference relations, memoirs, district conference records orphans home, American Bible society, superannuates homes, temperance and social service, lay activities, hospitals, Christian literature, entertainment committee, examining committees. One-year committees were named for public worship, Wesleyan Christian Advocate, Sabbath observance and Wesley Memorial enterprises.

In the various reports rendered by the presiding elders, it was stated that 6,583 new converts had been added to Methodist congregations this year, due to the fact that numerous revivals had been held in every section. This number of converts represent the total number of converts in Methodist meetings, as many such converts went into congregations of other denominations. In a Methodist meeting no effort is made to proselyte or restrain a convert from going into whatever church he may desire. In addition to the number of converts added, there was a very large number of new additions by certificate.

Year Remarkable One.
The presiding elders with uniform statement declared the year to have been a remarkable one, when all conditions are considered. They reported good financial reports from every section, despite the severe adversities of business depression and bad crops. Also they stated that the development in all work pertaining to young people was phenomenal. Sunday schools are better equipped, better attended, doing work as well as a big increase in number of new schools. Epworth Leagues are the same. Reports from the Athens, the Griffin, the Augusta and the Oxford districts, where the boll weevil has been so prevalent, exhibited that a deep spirit of sacrifice had been in the hearts of the church people.

Mrs. C. C. Jarrell, of Augusta, and Mrs. Higginbotham, of West Point, presented to the conference a resolution asking certain changes in the charter of the Decatur orphans home, asking that the board of trustees be not self-perpetuating, and that the number of trustees be placed at twelve, one-half of whom shall be women.

Dr. Jere M. Pound, in behalf of Mrs. J. L. Walker, of Waycross, state historian of the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the bishop with a gavel made from the timber of the famous Wesley oak on St. Simon island, the tree under which John Wesley stood and preached while in America in 1737. It was near this tree that General Oglethorpe with 500 Americans defeated 5,000 Spaniards. The gavel is of peculiar interest to Georgia Methodists.

Rev. F. B. Smith, pastor of the Hanley church, Griffin, became ill at the Wesley Memorial church late Wednesday afternoon, and fell to the sidewalk fainting. Friends cared for him, and he was carried to his room.

Afternoon Session.
The afternoon session of the conference was devoted to a preaching service, when Dr. Walter Anthony, formerly of Atlanta, delivered an eloquent and forceful sermon to a large audience. Dr. Anthony has been stationed at Athens for two years, and has recently announced his intentions of transferring to the Florida conference. In his discourse he spoke of the passing of things material and of the eternal nature of all things spiritual.

The night session of the conference Wednesday was devoted to the anniversary of the Sunday school board. George M. Napier, attorney general, presided at the meeting, while Dr. W. M. Braham, superintendent of rural Sunday school work, delivered the address of the evening.

The program of the conference Thursday will include the regular morning session, with preaching in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. At 7:30 o'clock at night the board of education will hold its anniversary at the church, Dr. Fletcher Walton presiding. Seated on the platform will be all the members of the board. Addresses will be delivered by Drs. Ed F. Cook and R. H. Bennett, general secretaries of the board.

At 6 o'clock this evening the laymen of the conference will enjoy a banquet in the Chamber of Commerce building as the special guests of the Druid Hills Methodist Bible class. All the laymen of the conference will attend the meeting, at which time Rush Burton, lay leader of this conference, and C. L. Moore, of Nashville, will discuss all the phases of the enlarged laymen's activities movement. More than a hundred laymen are expected to be present.

At 6:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building the Men's Bible class of the Druid Hills Methodist church will entertain at dinner all the pastors of that church. Former pastors who will attend are Rev. Henry B. Mays, Rev. S. A. Wason, Dr. Fletcher Walton, Dr. Wallace Rogers and Rev. A. M. Pierce, the present pastor.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive,
Method that Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable, or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs and carries medicine where sprays, douches and solvents cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. It contains no cubes or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men. If you suffer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or if subject to frequent colds, you should try Dr. Blosser's Remedy which may be had at any drug store; or if you desire proof of its beneficial and pleasant effect, send ten cents (coin or stamp) to The Blosser Co., 27 Bd., Atlanta, Ga., for a trial package.—(adv.)

LIONS' CLUB WILL AID IN CHAMBER CAMPAIGN

Objects of Movement Are Explained at Meeting by President Foote.

A rally to the support of the chamber of commerce in its present membership campaign was one of the principal features of the luncheon meeting of the Lions' club Wednesday, C. C. Whitaker presided, in the absence of President J. R. Regans, and as chairman of the committee on memberships, announced that tentative plans had been worked out for increasing the club's membership within a short time.

President W. O. Foote, of the chamber of commerce, appeared before the body on instructions from the executive committee of the chamber and asked for closer co-operation on the part of the club in the present campaign of the chamber.

"I am not here asking something for myself," said Mr. Foote, "nor am I here asking something for the chamber of commerce. I am here at the request of the executive committee which is composed of your president and the presidents of the other civic organizations of the city. This committee has asked me to explain to you the purpose of our campaign for support, and in view of the records made by the other organizations of this kind, I feel sure that this club will lend us work in the drive.

"We have had expressions of approval from your club in the work we are now planning, a work which will make for a bigger, better, more prosperous Atlanta, and now we want to ask you to give us workers from the ranks of your members—men who will go out with the hundreds of other business men who are now working in this campaign to make true the conception we have formed of an Atlanta of 500,000 population."

Following his talk, Mr. Whitaker took the floor, and declared that what had been asked was exactly the thing for the club to do, as a duty to Atlanta and as a duty to the prosperity of the individual members hoped for in the progress of the city.

A call for volunteers secured a number of additional recruits for the ranks of workers now active in the campaign, and it was predicted that the club would lend its active support 100 per cent strong.

Further plans for increasing the club membership will be announced at the next weekly meeting, which takes place next Tuesday.

Boy Scouts Will Place Posters For Red Cross

Owners of Automobiles Are Urged to Co-Operate With Roll Call Workers.

Another "good turn" by the Atlanta Boy Scouts will be accomplished for the sixth annual membership roll of the Atlanta chapter American Red Cross, when they spend an afternoon between now and Saturday, laying a small Red Cross poster upon the seat of each automobile parked downtown.

These posters are to be placed on the windshields, and it is requested by the Atlanta chapter of every automobile owner that he co-operate to the extent of placing one of these posters on his windshield, and to keep it there during the drive for members through the coming week. Any owner of a car who fails to find one of these posters in his car, and who is willing to use one, may have it mailed him by calling the Atlanta chapter on the phone, Ivy 0689.

While all that is asked of any one who joins the Red Cross is the regular dollar membership fee, it should be clearly understood that no one is restricted to that amount. While to many $1 means a good deal, there are likewise many to whom it means very little; and wherever these latter feel so inclined, the association will be very glad to receive from them a contribution of whatever larger amount they are willing to give, thus placing themselves in the class of contributing members.

Superintendent W. A. Sutton, on behalf of the public schools, together with the parent-teachers, has given strongest indorsement to the Red Cross roll call. Mrs. Frank McCormack, general president of the Parent-Teacher association has written a letter to the presidents of the schools of the city enlisting their active support. Thanking them in advance for their interest and help in this drive, Mrs. McCormack says in her letter:

"The annual Red Cross roll will be called November 13-14. The wonderful work done by the Red Cross is well known. I am sure, by you, by I am certain I can count on you this year to see that your association is well represented. The Atlanta Parent-Teacher association has always entered into the spirit of this work wonderfully and the appeal of the Red Cross is one most worthy of our help and support."

"I distributed 500 buttons at the presidents' luncheon last Thursday, but if you were not there, and failed to get your number, by applying to 249 Ivy street, you can be supplied."

Atlanta's school children, states Superintendent Sutton, are all taking enthusiastic and active interest in the roll call campaign, in their desire to help make it a splendid success. They have been supplied with buttons and the membership cards so that any of the school children who wish it may enroll themselves as Red Cross members or may secure membership cards for members of their families. It is anticipated that a large number of members will be enrolled as a result of the activities of interested school children.

Construction Work On $50,000 Building Will Start Thursday

Construction work on the new $50,000 structure which will house the workshops of the Atlantic and Gulf Coal corporation at Pratt and Gilmer streets will be begun Thursday by the Barge-Thompson Construction company, according to announcement Wednesday.

Plans call for a two-story garage workshop, two one-story stables and a one-story office for the workshop department. The buildings will be of reinforced concrete with brick surface, and will occupy a lot fronting 200 feet on Pratt street and 150 feet on Gilmer street.

JUNIOR CHAMBER PLANS BIG TIME ON NOVEMBER 16

The junior chamber of commerce has announced the opening of its fall entertainment program with a big frolic at the Capital City club for November 16.

About this time every year the junior chamber gives an entertainment and the event this year promises to be the biggest and best that has ever been put on, it was stated. Ticket committees are making a canvass of all members and hope to fill the Capital City club to capacity.

Arrangements are being made to secure an orchestra which will play from 9 to 1 o'clock. Several stunts are in preparation to relieve the monotony of dancing, it was stated, and numerous prizes will be given away. With the announcement that several new surprises will take place, it was whispered that the frolic will be the most complete affair that the junior chamber has ever put on.

In the past the entertainments have been limited to the members and a selected few. It was stated that this year, however, the members will have the privilege of bringing as many of their friends as they desire. The junior chamber is thus hoping to interest other men who are eligible for membership and show them just what it is doing.

Bill Lowe is chairman of the program and E. H. Stedfeld is handling publicity; De Sales Harrison will have charge of stunts.

CANDLER IS HOME AFTER TRIP EAST ON HOTEL VENTURE

William Candler, local capitalist who has just closed negotiations with the Bowman hotel interests for the erection of a $2,000,000 hotel and apartment house at West Peachtree and Fifth streets, was greeted upon his return to Atlanta Wednesday by J. S. Barker, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta convention bureau.

The two officials warmly congratulated him on his hotel venture. Although he was not prepared to give them any details as to architectural plans, he assured them that the structure would be a credit to the city, equalling in size and grandeur some of the north's finest hotels.

"The project is a big one—just how big I can't say as yet," he said. "But I know there will be two separate buildings. One of these will be the present unfinished structure at the corner of Fifth and West Peachtree, which will be completed as an apartment house, and a new building, much larger, which will house the hotel proper.

"All the features of the famous Biltmore hotels in other cities will be incorporated in the structure. There will be a roof garden, tennis courts, and a number of other luxuries."

REALTY ADVERTISING WILL BE DISCUSSED

Real estate advertising will be informally discussed Thursday at the weekly luncheon of the Atlanta real estate board, it is announced by President Ward Wight. Short talks will be made by men who prepare and place advertising for some of the city's largest agencies.

One of the greatest powers in the onward rush of Atlanta business is classified advertising.

It impels the movements of persons who desire to buy a house, rent an apartment, purchase a used automobile, procure a position or accept a sound investment offer.

But these two instruments of power differ widely in one important respect. The best advice regarding the first is, "Don't Touch"—and the second, "Get in Touch."

THE ELECTION.

The democratic landslide in the state and congressional elections throughout the country Tuesday, demonstrated four outstanding facts which will have direct bearing on the 1924 presidential campaign—

First, that the voters of the country not only registered a "vote of rebuke" to a republican administration, clothed with every working opportunity for making good its pre-election promises of 1920, for its acts of omission; but that it registered also a "vote of protest" against its acts of commission, illustrated principally in an arbitrary, high tariff law that strikes at the very heartstone of the masses.

Second, that agricultural and industrial conditions following the world war have immeasurably suffered by reason of closed foreign markets, strained international relationships due to a lack of sympathy and co-operation on the part of this government, looking to a bond of mutual world interests by which the balances of trade could be advantageously maintained.

Third, that there is a growing sentiment against the reactionary and predatory tendency of the republican party illustrated in legislation favoring the privileged interests and conversely opposing the people, and that sentiment is correspondingly crystallizing toward the more progressive policies of the democratic party.

Fourth, that the country is becoming rebellious against the failure of prohibition enforcement; and against any arbitrary and revolutionary interpretation of the Volstead act, which may in a measure be held responsible for the wake of crime and death that is sweeping the nation.

Election features that are particularly impressive are the greatly reduced republican majorities in both the senate and house, the latter having been cut down from 167 to practically nothing; the complete restoration of the solid south to its old-time democratic faith; the rapidly rising democratic tide in the pivotal states of the central west, as illustrated by the vote in Ohio and Indiana; the restoration of democratic control in the major states of the east, New York having overturned a republican majority of more than a million in 1920 by piling up a half million democratic reduction in the normal republican vote in every state in the union, the old rock-ribbed republican strongholds, regarded as immutably republican as the law of gravitation, having saved their candidates, almost without exception, by the bare "skin of the teeth."

The swing of the pendulum from the cataclysm of two years ago, is practically complete, and is a repudiation of the twenty months of a reactionary, old-guard administration that will grow in momentum until the national elections of 1924, at which time present indications point to a full and complete restoration of democratic control in all the branches of the national government.

When the wave of hysteria has passed and the result of Tuesday's voice has been coolly and calmly appraised, it may be seen that it is best for the country and best for democracy that the present minority party did not capture full control of the house in the 68th congress. With a republican executive, who will continue in office until 1924 by provision of law, and with a senate that could not possibly have been captured completely by the democrats at this time, by reason of the differential in expirations, it is easily seen that no outstanding democratic policy could have been enacted during the next two years.

On the contrary, the republicans could have gone into the 1924 campaign with the campaign bugaboo of "a democratic house," and capitalized a cross-purposed condition, just as it capitalized the cross-currents of popular thought on the foreign relation issues in 1920.

As it is, the republicans, although overwhelmingly defeated as a party unit, in 1922, will continue in working control of both the legislative and executive branches of government until 1924, and will again, as this year, be forced to go before the people upon their own record, unhampered by restrictions.

Tuesday's elections undeniably evolved strong presidential factors in the 1924 democratic national convention. The overwhelming election of "Al" Smith in New York makes him a factor, and the great race of Governor Ralston in Indiana, and even of Senator Pomerene, in Ohio—the president's home state—though the latter is apparently defeated by a close margin, will unquestionably bring these gentlemen prominently before the public eye in all pre-convention speculations for the next two years.

It is gratifying to the democrats of the nation, and particularly of the south, that Chairman Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, who regained the seat in congress that he lost in the avalanche of 1920, was at the helm of his party in this 'great sweep of victory. No man in national life commands a keener respect of all the people for honesty, progressiveness and ability, and the election Tuesday demonstrated the wisdom of the committee in naming him its chief.

A CALL FOR SANITY!

Next in significance to the party effect of the democratic landslide that swept the nation Tuesday is the evident tendency toward a sane and sane interpretation of the prohibition enforcement act.

The so-called "wets" having won by popular referendums in Illinois and Ohio, and having elected their candidates in Maryland, New Jersey, New York and Missouri, and apparently defeated the act of the enforcement bill for congress in Minnesota, may take it as an evidence of a returning sentiment in favor of repealing the eighteenth amendment.

But such is not the case.

The people of this country will never by popular vote open the door of the grog shop again; and yet there is no mistaking the growing popular discontent with an enforcement vehicle that is either inadequate to carry the constitutional law against the whisky traffic, or is so automatically interpreted that it invites illegal traffic, and in its attempted arbitrary enforcement leaves paths of crime and carnage behind it.

The country is beginning to believe, and not without reason, that the Volstead act as written, and as interpreted by the government, has precipitated a condition in this country that is as bad if not worse than a restricted and a properly regulated legal traffic.

And while the latter is not wise, nor is it generally desired, there is a desire for a liberal and constructive interpretation of the act enforcing the eighteenth amendment—or a new act on sounder principles—that shall rob it of fanaticism, and revolution, and place its enforcement along sane and reasonable lines.

When the politicians of this country quit playing with the prohibition issue in a spirit of demagoguery; and when law enforcement can be based upon reason and popular justice, and not upon the code of an invisible government of fanaticism that is perpetuated through sentiment and impracticable idealism, then, and not until then, will the flood-tide of bootlegging be checked, and the merciless charge of the poison brigade arrested.

That is what the voters mean—and not that they want the open saloon again.

THE SAFETY SIDE.

The diversifying counties in the state are all on the winning side, and more of them than ever before have made creditable records this year, not only in raising their own supplies, but a surplus that brings money in from other sections.

"We're in the home product business now to stay," says one progressive farmer, in The Cochran (Ga.) Journal: "We are diversifying."

That is why so many cars of Georgia raised hogs, corn, wheat and products of every description are going forward to help feed other sections. Home has enough, and to spare.

The Georgia weather is so favorable to farm activities that they are practically going forward all the time!

Of this The Sandersville (Ga.) Progress says—
"Farmers from all sections report that they have been busy sowing grain and in many of the fields it is coming up. Other sowings will be made before cold weather arrives and the indications are that there will be an abundance to take care of the local needs next spring and summer."

It has been demonstrated that we can produce money crops of all kinds pretty much every month in the year; and general diversification in the home product will work wonders in that line.

Poets of More Importance

Page letters sufficiently reveal his fondness for Sir Edward Grey and the splendid relations that existed between the two men. The sympathetic chords which they struck upon their first meeting only became stronger with time. A single episode of the war illustrates the kind of fellow-feeling that drew them together. It took place at a time when the tension over the blockade was especially threatening. One afternoon Page asked for a formal interview; he had received another exceedingly disagreeable protest from Washington, with instructions to push the matter to a decision; the ambassador left his embassy with a grave expression upon his face; his associates were especially worried over the outcome. So critical did the situation seem that the most important secretaries gathered in the ambassador's room, awaiting his return, their nerves strung almost to the breaking point. An hour went by and nothing was heard from Page; another hour slowly passed and still the ambassador did not return. The fact of the assembled staff lengthened as the minutes went by; what was the ambassador doing at the foreign office? So protracted an interview could portend only evil; already, in the minds of these nervous young men, ultimatums were flying between the United States and Great Britain, and even war might be hanging in the balance. Another hour drew out its weary length; the room became dark, dinner time was approaching and still Page failed to make his appearance. At last, when his distracted subordinates were almost prepared to go in search of their chief, the ambassador walked jauntily in, smiling and apparently carefree. What had happened? What was to be done about the detained envoy?

"What ship?" asked Page, and then suddenly he remembered. "Oh, yes—those." That was all right; Sir Edward had at once promised to release them; it had all been settled in a few minutes.

"Then why were you so long?" The truth came out; Sir Edward and Page had quickly turned from intercepted cargoes to the more congenial subject of Wadsworth, Tennyson and other favorite poets, and the rest of the afternoon had been consumed in discussing this really important business.

Perhaps it was a disposition to glibly that gave him that name Turk in the first place.

As the Smoke of Battle Clears

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN

What is left of the republican party in this country, after Tuesday's crushing defeat, is undeniably sitting out on a limb, with a militant democracy, heartened by a sweeping victory, waving confidently away for the 1924 fall.

Unless the unusual happens, Tuesday's election not only evolved the next democratic nominee for president, but produced the next president of the United States.

History usually repeats itself; and unless all precedent is swept into an ashheap, the democratic tide that began to rise as quickly as the present administration showed itself literally hamstringing by the privileged interests of this country, and oblivious to the welfare of the masses, will continue until it becomes a veritable flood in the elections of 1924.

Nothing short of a miracle can arrest the sweep, and, without any party detection or insurgency, such as helped to overthrow the Taft administration in 1912, the democrats will be in full control of both the executive and legislative branches of government after the 4th of March, 1925.

As time goes that is not long off!

In casting around for presidential timber, as a result of the landslide, the popular eye will naturally first turn upon ex-Governor "Al" Smith, of New York, who overturned a republican majority of a million votes in 1920, and goes back to the executive chair with a clean democratic majority of around a half million.

And yet—Governor Smith of New York will not be the democratic nominee for president.

He is the idol of Tammany. He came from the streets of the great east side and made a place for himself in national life envied of all men. He is honest, true, militant, progressive, dashing. He is an able lawyer, a fluent speaker, an uncompromising friend, and an orthodox democrat.

But "Al" Smith is a Catholic—and however much the liberal and tolerant thought of this country may hope to see the affairs of state divorced absolutely from sectarian issues, there is no challenging the statement that the time has not yet come—if it ever does—when a Roman Catholic can be elected to the highest office in the gift of the American people.

I shall not discuss the merit of such an issue. It has no place here. I am only stating what a great majority of the people of this country know to be a fact—

And in doing so, here's to "Al" Smith, who speaks the language of the street, and in one of the most picturesque characters in this nation today!

Attention next shifts to ex-Governor Ralston, of Indiana, who ran one of the most remarkable races of any national figure before the people. His apparent defeat of Beveridge for the senate to succeed New, the incumbent, whom Beveridge defeated in the republican primary, is one of the most striking and outstanding incidents associated with the congressional elections.

This is made more pronounced by the election of the republican state ticket, showing the wonderful popular strength of the democratic candidate, nipped as he was against one of the nation's greatest orators, a former senator and a figure of great force and picturesqueness.

Governor Ralston is an unfailing progressive democrat, and while he has not heretofore been regarded as a national figure, his own people have looked upon him as a man who would some day, and perhaps at an unexpected moment, spring into national prominence, and become the great party power and leader for his force of character, party fealty and unquestioned ability have so adequately equipped him.

If the official count in Indiana should confirm the earlier reports that Ralston has won the senatorship in that state, then there can be no question as to the force of this great victory in shaping the democratic slate two years hence.

It has been generally conceded that should Senator Pomerene, democrat, of Ohio, win a re-election in the president's own state in the face of a 400,000 Harding majority in 1920, that he would be a factor in the 1924 election; but such is true, whether the official returns declare his re-election or not.

At this writing it would appear that Senator Pomerene has been defeated by a small margin, although the democratic state ticket seems to have been swept in.

His opponent, Congressman Fess, is one of the ablest men in the national house, profound and usually safe and sound.

He is a close personal friend of President Harding, and the force of the president's personal influence, working through home-bred agencies that could not be employed in other states, was behind Fess. And yet the great victory of Pomerene, of the face of the returns, whether actually re-elected or not, will make him a factor to be seriously considered in 1924.

The question may be asked, why did Pomerene run behind his state ticket?

The answer to that question will operate against him more strongly than anything else in planning the next presidential battle—

He, for some reason or other—on just what vote I am not prepared to say—antagonized railroad labor, and was bitterly fought not only by a strong element in the brotherhoods but by strong and sympathetic elements in other branches of organized labor.

There is no mistaking the great ability of Senator Pomerene, and before the San Francisco convention in 1920 he was very seriously considered for the democratic nomination.

One of the most conspicuous figures in Tuesday's election is Senator John B. Kendrick, of Wyoming, who apparently defeated Frank W. Mondell, the present floor leader of the republicans in the house, and next to President Harding the most powerful factor in the present administration.

Senator Kendrick is a progressive democrat, a member of the "farm bloc," undeniably of marked ability; and if the official count confirms his defeat of Mondell, there is no mistaking his force as a factor in the next national convention.

Geographically Senator Kendrick is handicapped as a presidential possibility. There is no mistaking a growing sentiment, however, that one of the democratic nominees shall come from that great prairie country of the far west, and while a candidate from Indiana or Ohio or some eastern state may head the ticket, it is not unreasonable to expect Senator Kendrick to loom strong as a candidate for the vice presidency, whether he will consider such a sacrifice or not.

Tuesday's result was not unexpected.

The democratic tide has been running strong since the country woke up after the elections of 1920 and realized that it had been swept by prejudice and passion following the war, with little thought to sound reason, and less to the effect a stubborn and unsympathetic foreign policy would have upon the material welfare of the producing masses of this country who must sell their products abroad.

The 67th congress then began to disappoint by its acts of omission, failing to reduce taxation, or to relieve the burdens of domestic distress; and also by its acts of commission in saddling upon the people a terrorizing tariff law that touched the heartstone of every consumer, and cut off or impaired the foreign market for commodities of export.

And thus the tide grew in force until the people had their first opportunity to register both their rebuke and their protest—

And they registered both in no uncertain language!

Many national figures fell before the barrage of ballots—figures close to the president, and representative of everything that the administration of President Harding stands for and defends.

The close margin by which Senator Lodge, the republican floor leader, appears to have been returned in Massachusetts, is a rebuke to him and his position on foreign relations as well as of domestic party problems, that is crushing.

And it is also significant of the changing feeling in this country regarding the nation's international problems.

Finally he came to New York and went for a talk with McGraw. Let me quote a finely written paragraph from The New York Times of recent date: "A baseball player, tossed into the scrap heap by one club, given up by the doctors as hopelessly lame, picked up by John McGraw for a salary of $100,000 a year, and only four years later and won for the Giants the third game of the World's Series at the Polo Grounds. The score was 3 to 0."

So his arm WASN'T "hopelessly lame" after all!

But I must leave the guess that Scott had little secret doctor all his own to whom he talked and then came to a decision that he was not through. "I think my arm is all right—and I have a chance," he had told the New York manager.

And so, throughout the English speaking world, the word was flashed that Scott won!

In the same way, you may win. Faith is no one performer by any means. A thousand times a thousand it has lifted the frail and faltering few men and women to the next step higher—and then still higher.

Rulership is invested within the heart of the one who listens to its beat—not in those whose glance or mere opinion is tossed as one would a ball.

If you hold the opinion that you will never fail, or side-step, or falter—that is the decision that will surely prevail against every odd of time or circumstance.

Men and women always have, and always will, win within themselves! (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

There is just one thing you can say with success, except for the unavoidable absence of peace.

That far-away look in her eyes while her husband is talking business means that she is wondering what to have for dinner tomorrow.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

(Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.)

The Second Grand Bull.

In offering a few hints the other day on "how not to handle boils" I formulated two important rules for those who do not yearn to handle a line of boils. The first rule was: Never touch a boil. The second rule was: Never touch anything that has touched a boil. These are very simple rules for cleanly, intelligent persons who can and do discipline themselves and control their inquisitive fingers.

To the two rules of management of boils already laid down, I would add another: Never poultice a boil or any lesion that resembles a boil.

This third rule will seem deliberately aimed at grandma. Be it so. My reputation for disrespecting age is already made and I have nothing more to lose. He who poultices a boil nourishes and nourishes boils. There could be nothing more agreeable to the ordinary pus-producing germs (Staphylococcus pyogenes aureus et alii) than a nice moist warm flannel poultice. The doctors of the era before the discovery of the cause of blood poisoning favored poultices. Lancelotti produced "laudable pus"—they imagined then, unenlightened folk do now, that it was good for such things to fester and run, to carry corruption and humor out of the system, you know.

Now, children, this corruption and humor business is a sad mistake. No more corruption or humor comes out of the most prodigious boil that comes out of your finger when you cut it. Pus examined chemically and microscopically proves to be nothing but the dead and dying phagocytes or soldier cells of the blood, together with countless hordes of living and dead pus germs. So, you see, if you are not a superstitious and totally amphybious person, that there is nothing to be "drawn" out of a boil by a poultice, even if a poultice would draw anything out.

Used as an ointment as Charlie Chaplin would use custard pies, but be careful and don't get one on your boil.

Every Woman

Miss Katharine Haverty Makes Brilliant Debut

The first of the season's formal debut parties was a brilliant event of Wednesday night at the Piedmont Driving club, when Miss Katharine Haverty, daughter of James J. Haverty, and one of the group of lovely sisters who hold popular place in the social life, was introduced.

The guests were invited for 9 o'clock and in the brilliant company were represented a large contingent of the married people as well as the unmarried set.

The receiving party stood at the far end of the ballroom and included the host and his debutante daughter, Miss Haverty, with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spalding and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy.

Around them were disposed the innumerable tributes in flowers which had been sent the debutante by her friends and the gayety and variety of these flowers was offset against the palms which were massed in the great fire place, and on the mantel clusters of yellow and white chrysanthemums were a formal part of the decorations.

The entire reception floor of the clubhouse was handsomely decorated with palms, variegated foliage plants and smilax.

The pillars were twined with smilax, groups of palms massed at their base were outlined against the prevailing ivory color and urns of chrysanthemums alternated with huge vases of roses.

The loggia was converted into a Japanese garden with dwarfed foliage plants and trellises hung with vines and roses. Punch was served there from bowls sunk in ferns and chrysanthemums. A delicious hot supper was served at 11 o'clock.

Warner's Seven Aces orchestra provided the music and one of the most picturesque features of the evening was the debutante number when the floor was left to this season's bride and their partners, while colored lights were thrown kaleidoscope effect on the dancing figures.

Miss Haverty made the most charming picture of girlish beauty in her white silver brocade gown, the brocade combined with silver lace. It was fashioned with extremely long waist and the long skirt, which permitted only glimpses of pretty and silver-slippered feet, was hooped at the hip line. Miss Haverty held an old-fashioned bouquet of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss May Haverty was gowned in orchid velvet combined with silver cloth.

Miss Dorothy Haverty wore green silver cloth and chiffon.

Mrs. Robert Haverty wore a dainty costume in watermelon pink chiffon.

Mrs. Jack Spalding wore black satin.

Mrs. John E. Murphy was gowned in white crepe with crystal beads.

Mrs. Frank McCaughey's gown was green chiffon combined with silver cloth.

Mrs. Clement Evans wore a lovely gown of tangerine-colored chiffon over silver cloth.

Mrs. Clarence Haverty was gowned in a striking model of turquoise blue velvet, draped with rhinestone buckles.

Assisting in entertaining were a winsome group of this season's debutantes, including Miss Louise Inman, Miss Lucy Candler, Miss Jennie Robinson, Miss Emily Nixon, Miss Mary Frances Cooleide, Miss Margaret and Miss Emily Frances Grant, Miss Mary Shelden, Miss Elizabeth Owens.

Mrs. Harlee Honors Inman Park Club.

Caps and Gowns Are Given Seniors At Agnes Scott

Fifty-nine seniors at Agnes Scott college Wednesday were given their caps and gowns at the annual investiture ceremonies at the institution. Eight of the young women were from Atlanta, four from Decatur and one from Kirkwood, and the others from several of the southern states. The Atlanta seniors include Margaret E. Brenner, Sarah Belle Broome, Maud Foster, Mary Goodrich, Frances Grace Harwell, Lucille Little, Edith McCallie and Nancy King Tripp. The young women from Decatur include Clara Mae Allen, Inge Allen, Lucille E. Dodd and Louise Brown. Miss Margaret S. Hanson is from Kirkwood.

The ceremonies were very impressive, the seniors dressed in their gowns assembling before the main building of the campus and marching to the chapel. Miss Nannette Hopkins, dean of women at Agnes Scott, placed the senior cap on each young woman's head, and Professor J. D. M. Armstrong of the English department delivered an address on the privileges and duties and the investiture ceremonies conferred on the young women who had so successfully completed a great portion of their college life.

He urged them all to ever remain true to the highest ideals of Agnes Scott and to always show their loyalty to their alma mater by helping build a "greater Agnes Scott" in moral, material and educational resources. Dr. P. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott, presided at the ceremonies and made a short talk to the assembled seniors.

Several visitors and all of the students attended the affair, which is an annual one at the institution.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $5.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the source and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly seals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and soothes the tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Debutante Club Adopts Program of Activities

Two Red Cross booths, one at Franklin and Cox, another in the Connally building on Monday and Tuesday of next week; two Atlanta organizations, the Y. W. C. A. annex and the Atlanta Child's home; and a section in the Needlework guild, are included in the program adopted by the members of the Debutante club of 1922, at the business meeting which preceded the social part of the meeting on Wednesday.

Miss Louise Inman, president, will appoint a chairman for each Red Cross booth, and there will be several girls on duty all day during the drive.

A vote was taken on the Y. W. C. A. annex and the Atlanta Child's home and it was found that the members were deeply interested in each of these appealing organizations, so it was decided that fifteen women would serve on each committee appointed to work on these two worthwhile subjects, one a boarding home for girls, the other a worthy Atlanta charity.

Miss Arabelle Dudley was a charming hostess to the debutantes when she entertained the club at a bridge luncheon at the Druid Hills golf club.

The game was played in the reception room which was decorated with a profusion of red and gold autumn leaves, together with yellow and white chrysanthemums in artistic arrangement.

The top score prize was a boudoir powder puff. Second prize was an exquisite Madeira handkerchief, and consolation was a dainty hand-made handkerchief.

Luncheon was served after the game.

Mrs. Wright Is Honor Guest At Reception

Miss Christine McEarchern was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a reception at her home on the Prado, in lovely compliment to Mrs. Charles Bagley Wright.

The house was decorated with ivy and roses and white chrysanthemums. The table, with its cover of fiolet lace, held in the center a basket of pink roses. Encircling the centerpiece were pink unshaded tapers in silver candelsticks, alternating with silver candelsticks of pink lights.

In the receiving line with Miss McEarchern were Mrs. J. N. McEarchern, mother of the hostess, Mrs. Wright, and Mrs. D. W. Blair, mother of the honor guest.

Miss McEarchern wore a handsome gown of white crystals over pink chiffon.

Mrs. Wright wore her wedding dress of white satin embroidered in pearls.

Among the guests were Mrs. D. D. Hancock, Mrs. A. T. Rogers, Mrs. H. T. Rogers, Miss Ruth Rhorer, Miss Mary Malone, Miss Kate Palmer, Mrs. M. D. Harris, Mrs. A. J. Harris, Mrs. L. Harris, Mrs. Virginia Houston, and Miss Lucille Morris. All of them were present.

SUCCEEDS WHERE DOCTORS FAIL

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Often Does That.
Read Mrs. Miner's Testimony
Churubusco, N. Y. "I was under the doctor's care over five years for backache and had no relief from his medicine. One day a neighbor told me about your Vegetable Compound and I took it. It helped me so much that I wish to advise all women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and backache. It is a great help in carrying a child, as I have noticed a difference when I didn't take it. I thank you for this medicine and if I ever come to this point again I do not want to be without the Vegetable Compound. I give you permission to publish this letter so that all women can take my advice."—Mrs. FRED MINER, Box 102, Churubusco, N. Y.

It's the same story over again. Women suffer from ailments for years. They try doctors and different medicines, but feel no better. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you can see the value in the case of Mrs. Miner. All ailing women ought to try this medicine. It can be taken in safety by young or old, as it contains no harmful drugs.

Georgiana Devoted to Interests Of Women in Business

The latest issue of "Georgiana," the monthly bulletin of the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, which is published in Atlanta, has recently come from the press.

The front page feature is a picture of the two Georgia women who are the first to be elected to the Georgia legislature, both professional women. Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, representative-elect from Bibb county, and Miss Beulah Kumpson, representative-elect from Fulton county.

The editor, Miss Leona Westbrook, sees in the choice a special significance. "That the first two women to serve in the assembly," says Miss Westbrook, "have been chosen from the ranks of the business and professional women is significant, in that it indicates the appreciation of the electorate of the ability of trained womanhood. It will be the privilege of Mrs. Napier and Miss Kumpson to pioneer the field, and it is safe to predict that they will so acquire themselves as to reflect credit upon themselves and their constituency."

Another interesting story in this issue concerns the appointment of a woman to what had hitherto been a position of political preference, the opposition to her appointment because it could be made to serve no political end, and the triumph of the woman's good work.

Minnie T. Hollingsworth, of Val-does, tells the story in affirmative answer to her own question: "Are women making good in the many fields that have been opened to them," which she says is a question that is more continually in the minds of the public than we think.

"About a year ago when the newly-appointed judge of the city court of Lowndes county, Judge O. M. Smith, received his appointment and set about adjusting matters to suit his convenience as judge, one of the first things he did was to create a separate office for the clerk of his court, which office had been handled in connection with and by the clerk of the superior court prior to this time. This, of course, brought about some dissatisfaction and subjected the judge to considerable criticism. However, there were plenty of applicants for the new clerkship, but when the judge passed them all up, who by the way, were all men, and appointed a woman, the criticism ceased."

an. Mrs. Berta D. Pullen, who had not even made application for the place as clerk of the city court, had subject himself to severe criticism. A few months later when Judge Smith was very unexpectedly called to the great beyond and everyone was wondering who would be the new judge and what effect it would have on the clerk of the court, the leading men in legal circles of the county conducted in such a highly satisfactory manner that they had been fully convinced that it was just the thing that should have been done. The result was that when Governor Hardwick appointed the new judge, it was with the understanding that he leave all appointments made by Judge Smith standing throughout the present term."

Y. W. C. A. "Trip Around the World" Beautiful and Interesting

Beautiful were the exhibits collected from many foreign lands by missionaries and tourists that were featured in the "trip around the world," given by the Y. W. C. A. at the Peachtree arcade, Wednesday afternoon and evening. The world trip will be repeated this afternoon and evening. Hundreds of visitors were present on the opening night. From the opening hour at 3 until 9 o'clock the booths were picturesque scenes as the girls and women in native costumes explained the rare curios, genuine trophies and wares from the countries represented by the different booths. Possibly the most distinguished booth was that of Africa with Mrs. George Wright as chairman. The African exhibit was loaned to the Y. W. C. A. by the Gammon Theological seminary of Atlanta. Hosea K. Nyabongo, 19 years of age, a student of the seminary, who is being trained for the kingship of Uganda, East Africa, was in the booth and explained the wonderful collection of curios from his native country. The African student will be king over two million people. He had on display some African money, a hymn book in his native tongue and other curios of interest.

G. T. Wardah, of Liberia, Africa, a native prince, who is also a student at Gammon Theological seminary, will be in the African booth Wednesday night at 7 o'clock to explain the collection. Mrs. W. R. Prescott was in charge of the booth.

HALF THE FIGHT AGAINST ILLNESS

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing the System. Black-Draught Will Help.

Kernersville, N. C.—Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who lives near here, says "Theodor's Black-Draught is kept in my home all the time, since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions. For dizziness, headaches, colds and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe. "It helps carry away bile and cleanses the system of poisons, and is the easiest of any medicine I ever saw."

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proved its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine." Black-Draught has been found a useful aid in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It sets upon the liver, as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthy matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught for your liver. Be sure you get Theodor's.

Most druggists sell Black-Draught. Get a package today—Theodor's. (Ind.)

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. When the little one arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have ever before. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first brought to the world the great remedy, "Mother's Friend."

Mrs. C. H. Hadden, of Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse. I have no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Note: Write for valuable free illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing authoritative information which every expectant mother should have. All about "Mother's Friend," to "Baby's Regulator Company," 24-26, Atlanta, Ga. "Mother's Friend" is sold by druggists everywhere.

"WANTED—TWO HUSBANDS" STARTS IN THIS SECTION MONDAY

Mrs. Hockaday's Bridge-Tea at Driving Club

An effective scheme in yellow and white was used yesterday for the decoration of the handsomely appointed tea tables, when Mrs. J. B. Hockaday entertained twenty-eight ladies at the Piedmont Driving club. There was a game of bridge, with graceful perfume bottles in Venetian glass for prizes, and afterwards a dining 5 o'clock tea was served in the gray room. The ladies were seated in groups of eight around the three tables, each having its centerpiece of yellow and white chrysanthemums, while the service was of yellow china. Mrs. Hockaday's afternoon gown was a graceful one of brown lace with chiffon and her velvet hat was trimmed with burnt goose feathers.

WHAT A CONVENIENCE THIS CONCEALED MUFF

To muffle a thing and get be considered a success—well it takes the witchery of a designer to do that. The new muffle-bodie coats are the way it's done. Where the coat blouses just above the waistline are two slits, and if you wriggle your fingers clear through 'til they meet, you'll find it's a muff.

BEAUTY CHATS By Edna K. Forbes

A PERFUMED BREATH.

Hundreds of young girls wring me in the course of a year asking either how to give the breath a delicate perfume, or, which is really serious, how to rid the breath of an indelicate one. The most beautiful woman in the world, of course, would be offensive if her breath were so.

In my opinion the best odor the breath can have is none at all. Sound teeth and a healthy digestion will provide for that, unless there is some catarrhal trouble. Even a hint of catarrhal trouble means a constantly poisoned breath, and for several other important reasons such trouble should immediately be treated. For the same reason a dentist should be consulted frequently to keep the teeth sound and firm.

Simple, easily digested foods, and a few easy precautions will make you sure that stomach and bowels are in good running order. If all this is done the breath must be sweet and pure. Sometimes, here is a hint a dentist gave me to remove tartar from the teeth, a frequent cause of bad breath. Put a little tincture of myrrh in a glass of water, enough to make a milky emulsion, and rinse the mouth with this after brushing the teeth. This, he says, will make the tartar crumble away.

Another suggestion to make the breath pure, during temporary indigestion, is to drink a glass of cold water with five to 15 drops of ammonia in it. After eating, onions, chew a leaf of parsley or drink a glass of milk to take away their odor. Another excellent thing is to eat rhubarb tablets, which purify the stomach and breath and can be purchased anywhere. Perfumed breath tablets come for those wishing to perfume their breath. These are easy to buy and too hard to make.

June M.—Bleach the red marks that were left from the boils by using cucumber juice or an occasional application of peroxide. These marks will bleach off themselves if you give them time.

Rose—Honey is a tonic as well as a coloring. Give preference to Egyptian honey to that of other countries. Alice M. H.—Lemon juice is used as a bleach either diluted or just as it comes from the fruit. It depends upon the sensitivity of the skin as to what strength should be used.

Ruth—The type blonde hair which turns a light brown can be kept richer in shade through use of a small amount of lemon juice in the last rinse of the shampoo. After this treatment the hair should be dried in the sun.

Tomorrow—A Red Nose. All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in this column in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal answer is desired, please stamp and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

A Wash Day Suggestion.

One housewife I know hangs out two large muslin bags on the line with her clothes and her things dry she puts the colored clothes into one and the white ones into the other and still lets them stay out in the air and sunshine to sweeten.

A PICNIC FOR TWO.
 "Where are we to meet, Larry?" Deborah demanded rather wildly. The ugly look on Finkenberg's face was quick to indicate his displeasure.
 "Larry? Is that all you're interested in? I paddle you all the way up the river to have a nice quiet little picnic and now you want Larry?"
 "But you said—that is, I thought you said we were to meet them all here. To do the camping scene. Hadn't we better hurry over to the shore?"
 "Why hurry?" he leered. "I like to sit here and look at you. Besides I'm tired—I did all the padding, didn't I?"
 "I guess you did," Deborah tried to smile. Then she directed her thoughts fiercely to getting the better of this man. She'd not let him know she was afraid—she's got on playing the game, flatter him!
 "Of course you paddled, Mr. Finkenberg, and you're wonderfully strong too, aren't you? Why don't you ever take part in the pictures? You'd make a good hero as Larry!"
 "Do you think so?" he asked softly as he tried to grasp her cold little fingers in giant hands.
 "Don't!" Deborah coquetted. "I didn't mean sentimental ways when I said you'd make a hero. I mean you're so strong and intelligent—so manly and honorable—everything, a girl would demand of a man she—

 "She what? A man she loved you mean?"
 "Yes, I guess so," Deborah floundered.
 "You think I'm like that?" she thought. "I'm—" he began rather pathetically. The only light had died out of his eyes, and perhaps it was the cleanness of the forest that elevated him too, for he sighed and suggested in a changed tone.
 "Come on, kiddie, let's be hiking!"
 "All right," Deborah chirped, and this time it was she who took his arm—bravely, resolutely, like a little pal clinging to a friend!
 "You're a great youngster," Finkenberg remarked with satisfaction as he looked down upon her. "I'm going to make something of you too—just wait!"
 "I don't know how I'm ever going to be able to thank you," Deborah sighed. "It will be wonderful if I can keep making a living in the movies—and not have to go back to the shop and work."
 "Pretty hard, eh?"
 A wince of recollection drew over her face. "I should say it is hard. Sometimes I think... Oh, I'd just do anything, rather than go back!"
 "Anything?" he asked rather seriously. Perhaps his little ideal was going to be smashed after all. "Any-

THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE

By Harold Donaldson Eberlein
 Joint Author of "Practical Book of Interior Decoration" Etc.

In tomorrow's installment Finkenberg makes a strange proposition to Deborah.
 "Complicated, but they use two drums—ordinary drums full of film like in a motion picture projection machine. A man speaks into the horn. His voice is recorded—not on a wax plate as in a phonograph, but by a dancing beam of light reflected by a mirror on the photograph of the film. The film is developed—run through the machine again—and out comes the voice! Perfect. Without a scratch!"
 "Marvelous!"
 "I should say it is marvelous! I tell you, girlie, the moving picture is just beginning to be born. Folks talk about the millions made in the old days. I tell you it's nothing compared to the climax ahead. I'm going to bank every dollar I have, not on elevating the moving picture, but in discovering it."

No. 130—Casement Curtains.
 One, two or three sets of curtains may be used in a casement window, but the essential set is the so-called glass curtains. These may be made of fluted colored glass as well as white.

These curtains may hang straight or may be looped back; they may be made with ruffles or with lace; they may be tied back with cord or with ribbon.

As a general rule curtains which hang in straight folds following the lines of the window casing are best. A cottage window calls for old-fashioned ruffled curtains looped back. But when it is desired to keep the outdoors view, curtains as shown in the illustrations are the most satisfactory.

They are more difficult to make, and to be a success they should be very accurately fitted.

When choosing the material for glass curtains, remember that a yellow or gold shade will stone for lack of sunshine; materials having a rose tone will lend warmth and coziness to a room, and a delicate green on a breakfast porch speaks of freshness and nature.

There is much to be said for two sets of curtains, one hung on the upper and one on the lower sash. The upper set can be kept drawn, while the lower sash curtains can be pulled back, letting in the light.

Tomorrow—Stools.

OTHERS HAVE WON — SO CAN YOU!

Study These Simple Rules

1. Anyone may compete, except our employees or their relatives. Prize winners in other similar word contests are also ineligible.
2. Use only one side of the paper in writing your answers. You must number each page and each word submitted consecutively—1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address in the upper right hand corner of each page. All answers must be mailed by December 2, 1922, to The Atlanta Constitution. A 5 per cent additional prize will be awarded for promptness as specified in the prize list.
3. The answer having the largest number of words which correctly name objects shown in the picture wins First Prize, etc.
4. In the event of ties, the full amount of the prize will be awarded each tying contestant.
5. The winning list will be made up from applicable words in all answers submitted and not from any predetermined or master list. One credit will be allowed for each correct word in your answer, and one credit will be deducted for each incorrect word or omission.
6. Three independent judges will judge the answers and award the prizes. Webster's New International Dictionary will be used by the judges as authority for all words. It is understood and agreed that participants entering this game will accept the judges' decision as final and conclusive.
7. Do not use obsolete, compound or hyphenated words, or any word made up of two or more complete English words.
8. Words of the same spelling can be used only once. Where the singular is used the plural must not be used, and vice versa.
9. Only one answer will be accepted from a family or from a group of persons who have worked on the picture together.
10. Every answer will receive the same consideration, regardless whether or not a subscription has been sent in. Neatness, style or handwriting will have no bearing on judging the winners.
11. Announcement of the prize winners and the winning list of words, together with the correct list determined by the judges, will be announced in the columns of The Constitution just as soon after the close of the game as possible.

2d Round Reached in Constitution's Tournament

Close Battles Feature Start of Match Play; All Favorites Winners

More Close Play Expected Today in Constitution's Tournament For Feminine Golfers at Brookhaven Club.

BY MRS. CLARENCE BRADLEY.

The first round of match play in the tournament that is being given for the feminine golfers by The Constitution got under way at the Brookhaven Country Club yesterday. The weather came through with its promise of fair and cooler weather and made it a perfect day for golf.

The first day of match play was very close, every fair golfer was playing at top form as the scores turned in will indicate. One of the closest matches in the first flight was the match between Mrs. T. T. Williams and Mrs. Charles M. Sciple. Mrs. Williams winning by two up and one to go. Mrs. Williams made the first side in forty-eight after taking an eight on number 9. Coming in she registered a forty-six making the eighteen holes in ninety-four.

Mrs. Sciple made a fine score but had trouble with her iron and could not get them straightened out. Mrs. Charles V. Cornell defeated Mrs. B. B. Blakeman four up and three in a thrilling match. Mrs. Cornell's golf is improving with every match. She was shooting some remarkable golf yesterday. Mrs. Blakeman is a beginner and should make a worthy opponent for some of the better golfers in the near future.

Mrs. Burr Wins.
Mrs. Henry Clay Burr defeated Mrs. J. W. Goldsmith in a hard fought match, four up and three to go. Mrs. Burr was one down at the turn and could not get on her drive but on the last nine holes she came back with a brilliant brand of golf and won by the above score.

Mrs. Nash Broyles defeated Mrs. Clarence Knowles two up and one to go in a very close match. Mrs. Broyles had trouble with her wood in the beginning but soon recovered and played a brilliant round. Mrs. Knowles also played a good game. The closeness of the match indicates the closeness of the battle.

In the baby or nine hole flight Mrs.

Eugene Black defeated Mrs. Ed Byrne by the close score of two up, the match going to the ninth green.

Mrs. F. W. Black defeated Mrs. Norman Colledge three up and two to go. Mrs. Colledge started off strong but her opponent soon overcame the lead and eventually let down.

Miss Grace Goldsmith defeated Mrs. R. H. Hardwick three up and two in a very pretty match. Miss Goldsmith and Mrs. Hardwick are just learning to play golf and for beginners they are making some very fine scores.

Miss Henrietta Davis defeated Mrs. L. F. Giblin in another very close match, two up. Both players were playing at top form and the match went to the ninth green, being decided by the small margin of one stroke.

Some very brilliant golf was unrecorded by the feminine golfers at Brookhaven and taking the matches as a whole none was of the top sided affair and all were so close it was not safe to predict a single victory until the last green was reached.

Today's Matches.
There should be some thrilling matches played today and as the players are evenly matched it is impossible to pick a winner in either flight.

The second day of match play will begin at 9 o'clock. The first flight is as follows:

Mrs. T. T. Williams plays Mrs. Charles V. Cornell. Mrs. Williams conceding Mrs. Cornell fourteen strokes.

Mrs. Nash Broyles plays Mrs. Henry Clay Burr. Mrs. Broyles conceding Mrs. Burr two strokes.

In the baby or nine hole flight Mrs. Eugene Black plays Mrs. F. W. Black. Handicaps even.

Miss Henrietta Davis plays Miss Grace Goldsmith. Both being handicapped with the same number of strokes.

The finals in this popular tournament will be played Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

KNOXVILLE TO SEE BULLDOG

TENN.'S 1923 SCHEDULE.
Knoxville, Tenn., November 8.—(Special.)—September 29, open; October 6, Maryland college here; October 13, open; October 20, Georgia at Knoxville; October 27, open; November 3, Vanderbilt at Nashville; November 10, Mississippi A. and M. at Memphis; November 17, Sewanee at Knoxville; November 24, Lexington, Kentucky State at Lexington.

Knoxville, Tenn., November 8.—(Special.)—With the exception of two major games and one preliminary tilt the 1923 football schedule of the University of Tennessee is complete from existing two-year contracts. One-year contracts with Ole Miss and Camp Beanning were signed last fall and have expired. It is not known whether these will be re-signed or whether new teams will be added.

The opening date of September 29 may be either Emory and Henry or Carson Newman, or it may be some weaker team in another section of the south than East Tennessee.

Centre college is wanting a football game with the Vols, but on account of the Colneola's national reputation they ask the Orange and White to journey to Danville, Ky. If the Orange and White are to play Centre, the date will probably be October 27. Either October 13 or October 27 could be used for the game, but the 27th would give the Vols more time to prepare to stop the attacks of "Flash" Covington et al. But one must consider that each of the open dates precedes one of the Vols' hard games.

The open Saturday on October 13 comes just a week in advance of the game with the Georgia Bulldogs, while October 27 is a week ahead of the clash with Vandy.

Local fans are anxious to see Auburn or Alabama included on the Vols' roster. The schedule will probably be discussed at a meeting of the athletic council, slated to be held before Friday.

Members of the Vol football team are anxious for an intercollegiate struggle, but the rule of the council on this subject is not known. Vol supporters generally are like to see the Orange and White take a trip above the Smith and Wesson line.

W. & L. WILL MEET CENTRE

Danville, Ky., November 8.—(Special.)—A drizzling rain and a fog made Tuesday afternoon a disagreeable one for the Centre squad which was given a two-hour workout at Cheek field. Street lights were on fully 20 minutes before Coach Moran called it a day and sent the Colonels to the showers. The varsity eleven was sent against the freshmen team in a brief scrimmage. The freshmen teams had gone through signal drills.

The Washington and Lee Generals are being held in the utmost respect by the Centre team, and scouts who have seen the Virginians in action report the respect is fully merited. Last year when the Colonels defeated the Generals 25 to 0, they made all the touchdowns.

Five times Centre was held for downs inside the 10-yard line by the fighting men of Washington and Lee. The line of both teams will be little different from those that started last year.

All Regulars Practice.
There were no changes from the Centre squad today, every player being in uniform and working at his regular position. Lynch, tackle, who was injured in the Virginia Poly game four weeks ago has fully recovered and will see action Saturday. He was held out of the Kentucky game last week to be ready for the Generals and the Auburn Plainsmen.

Plans are on foot here to run a special train to Louisville Friday afternoon to carry the student body, teams and many local supporters to the event is at a high stage here. Centre's cheering forces will be out in mass Saturday, something that has been lacking from the previous Centre grid events in Louisville.

Centre has received an invitation from Virginia Poly for a return game at Richmond, Va. December 13, 1922. Moran announced today that if Centre played Virginia Poly again they would have to come to Danville as a game with another team is being arranged for Richmond.

Centre has one of the best little prep teams that the school has ever turned out in the three years of football at the DeKalb county institution. They have a fast backfield but a very light one.

Commercial High has a new team with the exception of two men and they are one of the ends and half in the backfield. Both those players played their first football last season with the typists and Coach Holt built the team around them.

Coach Howell at Decatur High will depend largely upon Hensley to do the kicking. Hensley scrubbed for Monroe A. and M. last season. The game will be played on McDonough street, just behind the Decatur High school.

Railroad Valued.
Washington, November 8.—A tentative value of $9,086,000 was placed by the interstate commerce commission today on the property of the Gulf and Ship Island railroad in Mississippi. The company's total assets were valued in its own books at $15,211,000.

Tough Battle With Virginia Faces Georgia Bulldogs on Saturday

Georgia and Virginia Alumni to Celebrate Occasion—Georgia Stronger Since Auburn Battle.

BY EARLE WATSON.

Athens, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—The Old Dominion of Virginia, fresh from a convincing win over Jimmy De Hart's Washington and Lee Generals, provides what is being barked to as some severe opposition for the Georgia Bulldogs here Saturday.

It is believed that the men from "the good old state" will draw the largest crowd of the local season, since they seem to carry a certain halo of glory about them that attracts men from serious pursuits to a football game, when a less colorful, but more powerful opponent would fail.

Again, Saturday, Armistice day, will assemble over 10,000 people here for festivities attendant upon the holiday.

Stegeman's men emerged from the terrific fray with Auburn with no indelible scars to show them up as they prepare to enter one of the stiffest succession of grid encounters Georgia team was ever called upon to cope with. Virginia, Vanderbilt, and Alabama, each of whom have lately demonstrated strength as convincing as it is surprising, are to meet on successive week-ends by the Bulldogs.

"Red and Black" Stronger.
Georgia followers have seen their team go into battle with the Auburn Tiger, morally thrash him, and come out a much more dangerous foe than before.

The state of North Carolina covers a lot of territory. So does Patrick Richards, writer of sports in Asheville, N. C.

Pointing to the fact that the University of North Carolina had already won southern championships in basketball, baseball and track, Pat called upon the rest of the state to pray that the Tarheels win the next two games, which will give them the Dixie grid crown.

Pat made no mention about the hockey championship. This gives Agnes Scott's team a chance. Nor did he say anything about the college football season, down in Florida, has a wonderful opportunity. Deane Tever was another pastime over-looked by Richards. The football team of Mercer's football squad, it's experienced.

Stopped Jackets.
In baseball, the Tarheels stopped Georgia Tech, which was a real accomplishment. Oiler powerful baseball team in this section of Dixie's land might have come to grief at Chapel Hill. We don't see so much about the state's collegiate baseball record. Trying to pick a ball player in the Cracker assortment at Ray St. Louis was our assignment during the game. Incidentally that was a tough job.

N. C. Wins Argument.
Therefore, so far as we are concerned, the Tarheels showed the south how to play baseball.

There is no question about the basketball team. For real class it made the rest of the field in the basketball tournament believe basketball was born and bred at Chapel Hill. The quietest is entitled to all the honors that can be heaped upon it.

But concerning the football championship Richards is going to run up against considerable opposition before he will be permitted to escort the Chapel Hill eleven to the throne room and hire Jack Dempsey to knock out all intruders. There are some other pretty good football teams scattered around the south.

Stop That Cheering!
The Tarheels stopped Wake Forest. This is not causing the title-awarding committee any loss of sleep. Wake Forest isn't adding much to the formidable football teams. North Carolina made a very good showing against the Yale Bulldogs.

Defeated Trinity.
Trinity was defeated by the Tarheels. Oglethorpe came within an ace of winning over the same team.

GUYON TO PLAY SUNDAY IN CHICAGO
Chicago, Ill., November 8.—(Special.)—Jim Thorpe's Oorang Indians of Marion, Ohio, will be here Sunday to play the Chicago Bears in what is expected to be the most open played as well as the most picturesque post-graduate football clash of the season. Running Deer, War Eagle, Thunder, Eagle Feather, Down Wind and a dozen other Indians from many tribes hope to give the Bears a battle they'll long remember.

The Indians do their practicing at the little town of La Rue, Ohio, but the headquarters and park are at Marion, Ohio, home of President Harding. Many of the Indians are nationally famous as gridiron stars, chief among them being Left Halfback Guyon and Right End Caliac. Both of these gridiron marvels were with Thorpe on his Cleveland team of the National Football league last fall. They played originally with the Carlisle school, as did Thorpe.

It is interesting to note that the players come from tribes as widely scattered as the Mission and Flathead of the coast and the Ironquai and Mohican of the east. The Chippewas predominate on the squad, however.

VOLS BATTLE MISS. AGGIES

Knoxville, Tenn., November 8.—(Special.)—Approach of the University of Tennessee-Mississippi A. and M. game at Memphis, which is slated for Saturday, recalls the hectic engagement of last year when the Vols pulled an eleventh hour rally and, led by the dashing Lacey Roy Campbell, pulled a victory out of defeat. The Vols depart for the Bluff City Thursday night in a special coach. Memphis will be reached Friday morning and a signal practice on the gridiron will be held that afternoon.

Depe seems to favor the Vols this year. But that counts for little according to past experiences. The Mississippi Aggies seem to fight the Vols harder than any team on the Mississippi A. and M. schedule. The Vols are always forced to extend themselves in an engagement with A. and M.

The Vol line-up will be practically the same as functioned in the game with Vanderbilt. If there is any change it will be at center with the Coughy Grizzard replacing Morris, who will be shifted to a guard or tackle position.

Coach Banks is still working to get the ends down under punts at last clip. The Commodores outlasted the Vols in this department last Saturday.

The story of how Clayton missed the goal after touchdown Saturday has come out. Morris, at center, saw Clayton's offense and threw the ball before the signal was called as the referee would call offides and Tennessee would get the extra point. Clayton was unprepared and the goal was missed. No offside play was called.

DAWSON HIGH QUINT PLAYS
Dawson, Ga., November 8.—(Special.)—The Dawson High basketball quintet will meet the Marshallville club on the local court Friday night at 7:30 o'clock for their second game of the season, having lost to the Marshallville club in that town last Friday night a week ago by one point, the score having been 28 to 27 in favor of the opposing club.

In the opinion of the fans were the fans able to determine just how the game would end with respect to winner, as first one club and then the other would add a point or two to their score. Not until the final ring of the whistle did the Marshallville five consider the game their victory and a hard fought battle to say the least.

Ready to Eat.
Produce Row is getting ready for its annual banquet and Atlanta's sporting men are working over their best jokes for the big occasion.

No one has yet advanced any real reason why sporting editors should occupy space at a Produce Row banquet. This is a business many of our customers are interested in certain forms of produce, overripe tomatoes, decayed vegetables, cold storage eggs, etc.

I. O. U. O'Brien Speaks.
"We have now approached the season of the year when the frost is on the pumpkin and the corn is in the jug," writes Iggy O'Gly O'Brien. "And in less than 60 days Thanksgiving and Christmas will both be things of the past and it will be time for our stupendous annual banquet." Cheers from Blanke, Danforth and Wheatley.

Connally Crashed the Gate.
"At a recent meeting of the entertainment committee, composed of some of the very worst elements of the town, this is an open invitation to the very worst elements of the town to be invited to the annual banquet." We knew about this meeting before. "One-eyed" Connally heard the fuss, decided it was a prize fight and crashed the gate.

Flournoy Might Sing.
"The world's worst singers, who represented the trade at the football game in Columbus, might sing," I. O. U. writes. "This is an open invitation to Pal Flournoy, as singing is the thing Pal does worse than all things he does bad, if you get all that."

Regards to Volstead.
"The banquet is to be bone dry with plenty of liquid refreshments," is the way I. O. U. closes his communication. More cheers from the sporting men's supporters. In fact, deafening applause.

The Land of Bunk.
Cold weather is driving the wrestlers south. Ed Lewis, who is enjoying his turn as champion, started the ball rolling the other night up in Nashville. The crowd wasn't large and a boy by Lewis' opponent ended the affair.

As an actor the average wrestler has DeWolf Hopper looking like the president of a high school dramatic society. Strange, the public is bunched and likes it.

An unpronounceable name, some acting ability, good lungs and you're set for a career as contender for the heavyweight wrestling title.

Yost, Veteran Michigan Coach, Says Extra Point Should Be Eliminated

Assails Games Between Eastern and Pacific Coast Elevens and Favors Abolition Off All Post-Season Battles.

BY FIELDING H. YOST.
(Coach of Michigan Team.)

While I do not wish to be quoted as criticizing the colleges that still have a four-year playing rule, I do believe that it would be better for the game in general if the men were allowed to play varsity football for only three seasons. And I believe that the time is very nearly at hand when all colleges will require a one year's residence before they will allow men to play on their teams.

The day of the "tramp athletes" is about over. There was a time when the only requirements needed to make a man eligible for some of the teams was that he live on the campus. Oftentimes men played three or four years on one college team and then went to another college for the same period of time. Money was spent freely in trying to get players in one college to switch to another.

They tell a good story on one well-known coach of 20 years ago who said that he had seen a man who had been to college for three or four years and had been hurt and had to retire, and the substitutes were getting scarce. Finally, the coach yelled to him that the right half had been hurt and would have to leave the game. The coach looked up and down the bench. His experience were either on the field or injured beyond repair. With a groan of despair he muttered:

"Oh, h—l, I guess I'll have to use one of the students."

NO FRESHMEN ON VARSITY.
But to return to the question of intercollegiate football, I do believe that there should be more equality of competition. It is unfair for two colleges to have different rules for their eligibility committee to work with. It is also unfair for one college to play their freshmen on the varsity while the other does not.

It is likewise unfair for one college to allow its men to have more time for practice than do others. Then too, take the case of opposing teams varying in the number of games played during a season. Then too, take the case of opposing teams varying in the number of games played during a season. A football team with an eleven game schedule has an advantage over 50 per cent in experience over teams with a seven game schedule, and if on the same team freshmen are permitted to play, the advantage is over 100 per cent.

other wants to follow. Where will it stop? Heaven only knows. But one thing is certain unless some active force starts to check this tendency to go to the Pacific coast all large eastern schools will be wanting to miss the trip.

Of course, I do not favor professional football. It has a very bad influence upon the college player. It tends to make him dissatisfied to play the game for its own sake. Professional football robs the great American game of its greatest character building qualities. The ideas of generous service, loyalty, sacrifice and whole-hearted devotion to a cause are taken away and the game is robbed of the exhilarating inspiration of achievement merited for achievement.

I have been asked what I think of the changes in the rules for the current season. Well, I'll tell you. In the first place I am not wild about this "try for a point" business. I will admit that it is an improvement over the old goal after a touchdown, but I think it would have been better to have the extra point eliminated entirely. No one hates the games more than I do but I don't like to see them decided by one play either.

Rules Making Little Difference.
As far as the new rules for substitution go, I think that the new rule gives the coach much more leeway than did the old one. According to the old rule a man had to wait until the start of a new period before going back into the game. Under the present conditions, after the first half is over a man can go into the game at any time and it does not have to be at the start of a quarter.

I suppose it is true that most of the old timers really liked the old fashioned game much better than the new one, but as far as real worth is concerned I think the open game is better for the sport in general. It makes it much easier for those who watch the game, and then too, it puts an element of uncertainty into the contest that was not present in the old style of play.

MANY ISSUES LOSE IN BOND TRADING

United States Bonds Lose Ground—Foreigns, Local Traction and Rail Securities Decline Steadily.

New York, November 8.—Highly irregular price movements took place in today's bond market, foreign, local traction and most of the railroad issues losing ground while liens of industrial and public utilities companies generally moved to higher levels.

United States government bonds were reactionary, the new 4 1/2s breaking below par for a net loss of 10 cents on $100, and the Liberty 3 1/2s dropping 44 cents. Losses in the other issues ranged from 2 to 24 cents, except in the case of the first four, which advanced 10 cents and the fourth 1-4s which were unchanged.

Foreign securities again sagged under the depressing influence of a further weakening of exchange rates. Seine 7s proved the most vulnerable to selling pressure, dropping 1 1/2 points, while losses of a point were registered by Belgian 6s and 8s; City of San Paulo 8s; Danish Municipal 8s, series A and B; Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean 6s and Bordeaux 6s. There were a few exceptions, particularly Italian 6s and Swiss 8s, each of which climbed a point and Argentine 5s which moved up 1 1/2.

In the railroad list some of the Erie issues recovered ground lost in the recent reaction. The Convertible 4s, series B, advanced 1 1/2 points and the series D, one, while the general 4s moved up 1 3/4. The prior lien 4s continued under pressure, dropping 2 points. Other weak spots in this division were the Seaboard Air Line refunding 5s; Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s; St. Paul Convertible 4 1/2s; Erie Consolidated 7s; Minneapolis-St. Louis 4s and Baltimore & Ohio, Southern division, 3 1/2s, the losses ranging from 1 to 1 1/2 points.

Public utility issues were among the most active, buying being based on the theory that, with the election out of the way, several companies can now go ahead with their recapitalization plans.

Copper shares continued to give a good account of themselves, holding up well in the face of early selling pressure.

Steel shares became quiet and active toward the close in response to a brisk rally in U. S. Steel common, which carried it three points above Monday's closing level.

Total sales were $90,000 shares.

Call money opened at 5 per cent but advanced to 5 1/2 and then to 6. Stiffening of the rate was a tribute to withdrawals by investors and banks, who are finding a profitable use for their funds by financing operations in connection with the holding back of crops by wheat and cotton growers. Higher prices. Percent of time funds were available at 5 per cent for the shorter maturities. The bulk of commercial papers was 4 1/2 per cent at a 2 1/2 per cent rate.

The first school in the Pacific northwest was opened at St. John's, Vancouver, in 1855.

Mr. Walker is survived by his widow; two sisters, Mrs. T. C. Smith, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Sallie Walker, Atlanta; one brother, E. J. Walker, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

More Witnesses Reported Found In Choir Mystery

Two Men to Give Testimony
Supporting Story of Woman an Pig Farmer.

New Brunswick, N. J., November 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—The mystery in the presence of the two automobiles—one an old-fashioned, high-back model, the other a small roadster—in de Russes' lane near the Phillips farm on the night when the Rev. Edward Hall and Mrs. Eleanor B. Mills were murdered, has been cleared up in the preparations to place the entire case before the grand jury, authorities said tonight.

The lifting of the veil which has shrouded this angle of the case, it was said by Special Detective Mason, of the police, was an eye-witness by Mrs. Jane Gibson, farmer woman, unchanged. Her statement to the authorities that she saw two men and two women in noisy argument under the apple tree, where the bodies of the victim and the choir singer later were found, and saw a man fire several shots, still stands, the authorities assert. It is said that the count has been materially strengthened in several aspects by the bringing to light of new evidence contributed to the case by two men who were near the scene on the night of the murder, Mrs. Gibson, in support of her claim that she could identify the characters in the drama which she claims she chanced upon while riding about the country in search of a powerful hunter, had said that in turning about in the narrow lane the headlights of one of the automobiles suddenly flashed upon a powerful built man with a bushy mustache and a woman in a gray coat.

Authorities decline to make public the identity of the new witnesses or divulge other details which they used to clearing up the mystery of the automobiles. Detectives expressed doubt that this angle of the case would ever be revealed to the grand jury as the force of introducing it as brand new evidence at the trial, which it is hoped will result from the work of the inquisitorial body, is considered of the highest importance.

VENIREMEN DODGE SERVICE ON JURY AT HERRIN TRIAL

Marion, Ill., November 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Difficulty in selecting a jury to try the men indicted in connection with the Herring mine killings last June was forestalled today when many of the 130 veniremen from whom the jurors will be chosen were excused for release. Attorneys on both sides believe the selection of the jury will require probably two or three weeks.

Indictments against 41 of the 46 charged with having killed Howard Hoffman, an employee of the Southern Illinois Coal company, around whose mine the killings occurred, were null and void today when the defense, who insisted that a jury be selected and be instructed to return a verdict of "not guilty" against these 46. The objection, however, was overruled.

The defense made several unsuccessful attempts to forestall trial. The five men to stand trial for Hoffman's death are: Olin Clark, the first man arrested during the grand jury investigation; Bert Grace, Percy Hiller, Joseph Carnagi and Leva Nerve null process today when the defense, who insisted that a jury be selected and be instructed to return a verdict of "not guilty" against these 46. The objection, however, was overruled.

VENIREMEN DODGE SERVICE ON JURY AT HERRIN TRIAL

Marion, Ill., November 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Difficulty in selecting a jury to try the men indicted in connection with the Herring mine killings last June was forestalled today when many of the 130 veniremen from whom the jurors will be chosen were excused for release. Attorneys on both sides believe the selection of the jury will require probably two or three weeks.

Indictments against 41 of the 46 charged with having killed Howard Hoffman, an employee of the Southern Illinois Coal company, around whose mine the killings occurred, were null and void today when the defense, who insisted that a jury be selected and be instructed to return a verdict of "not guilty" against these 46. The objection, however, was overruled.

The defense made several unsuccessful attempts to forestall trial. The five men to stand trial for Hoffman's death are: Olin Clark, the first man arrested during the grand jury investigation; Bert Grace, Percy Hiller, Joseph Carnagi and Leva Nerve null process today when the defense, who insisted that a jury be selected and be instructed to return a verdict of "not guilty" against these 46. The objection, however, was overruled.

Los Angeles, Cal., November 8.—The defense rested its case today in the trial of Mrs. Clara Phillips, for the murder of Mrs. Albert Meadows, following the testimony of Alendists that the defendant was insane at the time of the slaying.
